

THE CITIZEN

Devoted to the Interests of the Mountain People

Vol. XXII.

Five Cents Per Copy

BEREA, MADISON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, MARCH 10, 1921

One Dollar and Fifty Cents Per Year

No. 37

Kentucky News

Richmond, March 5.—A night fire which caused damage to the extent of several thousand dollars occurred in the establishment of the Buick Motor Car Company here. When discovered the plant was ablaze in two places, and an auto which may have carried a firebug was seen to leave the vicinity immediately before the alarm was given. The building was only slightly damaged, and the loss was in burned tires and accessories. No cars were burned.

Lexington, March 7.—Twenty-one years ago Miss Ella Tarrants became owner of a 200-acre farm near Bowling Green, Ky. It was willed to her by an old lady whom she had nursed for some years. For twenty-one years Miss Tarrant and her family made a bare living from raising tobacco and corn. Not long ago oil was discovered on the farm. She gets $36,000.

Lexington, March 7.—A statewide conference on religious education will be held in the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church of this city on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. At the afternoon session on Tuesday, Dr. F. L. Johnson, of Columbus, O., area secretary, will be the principal speaker, followed by a conference on church schools. On Tuesday night, Bishop W. F. Anderson, of Cincinnati, formerly educational secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, will divide the time with President F. L. McVey, of the University of Kentucky.

Hazard, March 5. Articles increasing the capital of the Herald Publishing Company, publishers of the Hazard Herald, only newspaper in Perry county, from $8,000 to $25,000, were filed in the county clerk's office today. A daily newspaper for Southeastern Kentucky is planned by the concern. Bailey P. Wooton is president; W. M. Pursifull, vice president; E. C. Wooton, secretary and treasurer of the company. The officers, with Perry Gorman and W. C. Kinnard, compose the board of directors.

Louisville, March 4.—With the advent of a new National Administration today only two changes take place in the Kentucky delegation in Congress, whose new terms begin at noon. These changes include one each in the Federal Senate and House of Representatives.

Richard P. Ernst, Covington, will replace in the United States Senate J. C. W. Beckham, Frankfort, Democrat, who has completed a six-year term. It is reported that Mr. Beckham will locate in Louisville and form a law partnership. Senator Ernst will serve in the upper branch of Congress until March 3, 1927.

The only other change in the personnel of the State delegation is Congressman Ralph Waldo Emerson Gilber, Shelbyville, Democrat, who succeeds King Swope, Danville, Republican, chosen at a special election in August, 1919, to fill the unexpired portion of the term of Congressman Harvey Helm, deceased.

RICHMOND HIGH SCHOOL BURNS

For the second time in its history, Caldwell city school, on Second street, was destroyed by fire, which was discovered about half past four o'clock Wednesday morning. The magnificent structure, comprising the main building erected in 1894 and the large annex containing class rooms and the spacious auditorium built in 1910, were gutted completely. Four lines of hose played by the city firemen for hours were unable to make the slightest impression upon the conflagration, which burned itself out. A drizzling rain, which had been falling nearly all night, had no effect upon the power of the blaze, it appeared.

The loss is estimated by school board officials at $100,000, with possibly insurance to the amount of $40,000.

School officials all think that the fire caught in the furnace room.—Richmond Register.

In spite of the fact that the sea-going tonnage of the United States is today nearly 30,000,000 tons greater than in 1914, an advance of more than 500 per cent, and in spite of the intensive steamship production in Great Britain and the United States for themselves and other countries, the world's total steam tonnage is now less by 3,500,000 tons gross than it would have been if the war had not interfered with the normal rate of expansion.

U. S. News

Washington, March 3.—The Senate adopted and sent to conference a bill providing approximately $15,000,000 for additional hospital facilities for disabled service men.

Columbus, O., March 3.—Caricaturing of ministers on stage and screen was condemned in resolutions adopted today at the final meeting of the State Pastors' convention here.

Washington, March 3.—Hope of passing the naval appropriation bill at this session was abandoned today by Senator Poinsett, Republican, Washington, who has been in charge of it.

Washington, March 7.—Major-General Wood has been detailed at the request of President Harding to go to the Philippine Islands and make a study of conditions there in the light of Philippine aspirations for independence.

Washington, March 4.—Eight storm-tossed years in the presidency, filled with moments and scenes that will live forever in human history, ended today for Woodrow Wilson—"just plain Woodrow Wilson," as he himself smilingly asserted.

Cleveland, O., March 5.—The business outlook in the Cleveland Federal Reserve district is improving steadily, according to the monthly report on business conditions just issued by the bank. The automobile industry, it states, shows marked improvement and the outlook for resumption of building is excellent.

Washington, March 5.—Funeral services for Champ Clark in the hall of the House of Representatives today marked the final passage of the veteran legislator from the scope of his 26 years of political life and leadership as a member of the Congress. The body of the late Democratic leader lay in state in the House chamber this morning where it was placed Friday night under guard of Capitol police.

Washington, March 5.—Cessation of hostilities between Costa Rica and Panama is demanded in identical notes, which it was learned tonight, the State Department had dispatched today to the governments of those two countries by Charles Evans Hughes, the new Secretary of State. This action was the first of the Harding administration in the realm of foreign affairs and was said to have been based on the grounds of broad expediency, as the dispute between the Central American republics involved American interests in the Panama Canal Zone.

Washington, March 8.—The era of good feeling, proclaimed so hopefully by President Harding in his inaugural address, has in a measure been begun.

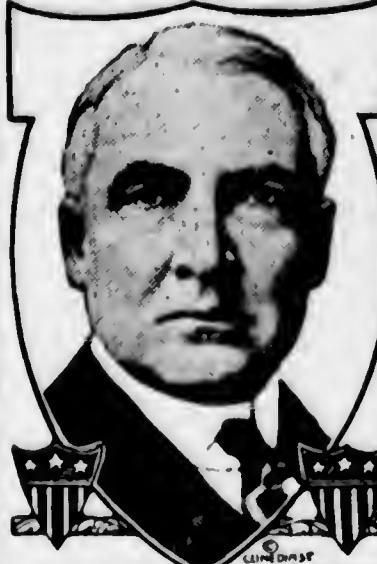

The smiling countenance of Democratic as well as Republican Senators emerging from the President's office bore testimony Monday to the fact that for the first time in eight years Congress and the chief executive are on intimate terms with one another. This means no reflection on Mr. Wilson, who came to Washington without knowing much about the personal equation of Congress and who never cultivated the legislative membership, but it does mean that Warren Harding's six years in the United States Senate will probably prove a great advantage instead of a handicap to him.

Substitutes for Genius.

There can be no real substitute for genius, but there can be a great deal done to put you in the genius class. Men of genius are scarce. They are of special endowment and come in the right age to merit their full worth. Yet men really know many who enjoy the name of genius are nothing more than honest-to-goodness workers who use their heads and tirelessly plot on until they get what they set out for. On the other hand many meteor-like sons of glorious promise fade and speedily fall into disrepute when subjected to the routine of ordinary mortals. A few turns at life's commonplaces would soon have them making the ordinary attractive, and reducing drudgery to pleasure. But where this happens once there are thousands of occasions where it fails to produce.

Excellent Definition.

"Favy," said Jim Tunkins, "is what makes people have more trouble bearin' other folks' prosperity than their own misfortune."

HARDING WOULD PROMOTE PEACE

Would Associate With Other Nations For Counsel.

NO ENTANGLEMENTS, HE SAYS

President, in His Inaugural Address, Outlines the New Administration's Policies and Some of the Tremendous Tasks Confronting the Nation. Pledges Service and Says He Confidently Faces the Future.

President Harding in his inaugural address outlined problems now confronting the nation and the policies of the new administration. Standing for the promotion of peace and progress, he said America was ready to associate with other nations for counsel, but that she could be a party to no entangling alliances. The new president urged service and said he faces the future confidently. The speech follows, in full:

My Countrymen:—When one surveys the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it, if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen a world passion spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken, and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable, and though both were threatened we find them now secure; and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest, happiest, and surest guaranty of both.

Standing in this presence, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely there must have been God's intent in the making of this new-world republic. Ours is an organic law which had but one ambiguity, and we saw that enclaved in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintained, the nation supreme and its concord inspiring. We have seen the world rivet its hopeful gaze on the great truths on which the founders wrought. We have seen civil, human and religious liberty verified and glorified. In the beginning, the Old World scoffed at our experiment; today our foundations of political and social belief stand unshaken, a precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example to freedom and civilization to all mankind. Let us express renewed and strengthening devotion, in grateful reverence for the immortal beginning, and utter our confidence in the supreme fulfillment.

Progress Proves Wisdom.

The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually, in itself proves the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement in Old World affairs. Confident of our ability to work out our own destiny, and jealously guarding our right to do so, we seek a part in directing the destinies of the Old World. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine.

Our eyes never will be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We recognize the new order in the world, with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the call of the human heart for fellowship, fraternity and co-operation. We crave friendship, and harbor no hate. But America, our America, the America built on the foundation laid by the inspired fathers, can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments, nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority.

I am sure our own people will not misunderstand, nor will the world misconstrue. We have no thought to impede the paths to closer relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and people who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

Association For Counsel.

We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference, for counsel; to speak the expressed views of world opinion; to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration, and would gladly join in that expressed conscience of progress which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship, and establish a world court for the disposition of such justiciable questions as nations are agreed to submit thereto. In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new concept of righteousness and justice and its hatred of war into recommended action we are ready most heartily to unite, but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty. Since freedom impelled, and independence inspired, and nationality exalted, a world super-government is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our republic. This is not selfishness, it is sanctity. It is not aloofness, it is security. It is not suspicion of others, it is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are.

Today, better than ever before, we know the aspirations of humankind, and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world, and a new appraisal of our nation by the world. The unselfishness of these United States is a thing proven, our devotion to peace for ourselves and for the world is well established, our concern for preserved civilization has had its impassioned and heroic expression. There was no American failure to resist the attempted reversion of civilization, there will be no failure today or tomorrow.

Rests on Popular Will.

The success of our popular government rests wholly upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In a deliberate questioning of a suggested change of national policy, where internationality was to supersede nationality, we turned to a referendum to the American people. There was ample discussion, and there is a public mandate in manifest understanding.

America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any neuen program likely to lessen the probability of war, and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice and peace, because we appraise international comity and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world, we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization, and we hold a maintained America, the proven republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting concord on both continents.

Mankind needs a world-wide benediction of understanding. It is needed among individuals, among peoples, among governments, and it will inaugurate an era of good feeling to mark the birth of a new order. In such understanding men will strive confidently for the promotion of their better relationships and nations will promote the comities so essential to peace.

Trade Ties Bind Closely.

We must understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy, and none may receive except as he gives. We have not strengthened ours in accordance with our resources or our genius, notably on our own continent, where a galaxy of republics

(Continued on Page Seven)

GENERAL CUMMING IS KILLED BY IRISH

AS MOTOR CONVOY RUNS INTO REBEL AMBUSH—FOUR SOLDIERS SHOT TO DEATH.

HIDDEN GUNS FIRE ON SURPRISED PARTY—CARDINAL LOGUE URGES PRIESTS TO MAKE APPEAL FOR PEACE ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION NEWS SERVICE.

London.—Concealed in the gorse-covered slopes in North County Cork, 500 Irish Republicans poured a deadly fire on an English military convoy, killing Brigadier General H. R. Cumming, war hero, and two other officers and two privates belonging to the East Lancashire Regiment. General Cumming, who had command of the Kerry Infantry, is the first British commander to fall in the Irish War. Escorted by three tenders, containing a detachment of troops, and one armored car, was traveling from Baltimore to Buttevant, when, from either hillside rising above the road near Clonabunnin, a heavy musketry fire was opened. The driver of the leading tender immediately was hit, and the tender ran into a ditch, followed by the armored car.

Headed by General Cumming, the troops took to cover to go into action, but the General was struck in the head by a bullet and died instantly. The ambushers were invisible in the gorse, and they sustained the battle for an hour, when their left flank was turned, forcing their retirement with undisclosed casualties. The road over which the military force was traveling had been mined, but the mines were not exploded.

NIGHT RIDERS TRY TO FREE COMPANIONS.

Scottsboro, Ala.—Attempts of 15 members of the Farm Tenants' Union to release four of their fellow-unionists from jail at Stevenson, near here, resulted in a gun battle between the union members and about 150 citizens and officials. No one was killed or wounded. Five of the rescuing party were captured and, with the four original prisoners, are locked in jail here. Deputy Sheriff Stevens of Stevenson, intercepted a band of members of the Farm Tenants' Union as it was about to start on one of its night-riding expeditions, which have been terrorizing Northern Alabama. The officer was able to arrest only four of the raiders, and they were placed in jail at Stevenson. A party of 15 from the Fabius settlement, the supposed headquarters of the night riders, rode into Stevenson and opened fire on the officers guarding the jail. Citizens, warned of the impending attack, rushed from their homes and, with the aid of the officers, repulsed and put to flight all except five of the band, who were captured and placed under arrest.

MARRIED 14 TIMES.

New York.—Married 14 times in three years, a deserter from both the army and the navy and now serving a term in the Naval Prison at Portsmouth, N. H., comprises the alleged war record of Harold Hammond, 20 years old. This was revealed here in tumultuous proceedings brought by the first and second wives. The court was told that Hammond enlisted in the army in 1917, and shortly afterward deserted from Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., and came to this city, where he married.

GAHITO CAPTURED.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua.—Gahito, lying a short distance to the northwest of Buena Del Toro, Panama, was captured by Costa Rican forces. The Panamanians retired toward Buena Del Toro, leaving behind 18 dead and many wounded. The Costa Ricans have occupied the Almirante Railroad and now are besieging Ciudad del Almirante. Gahito, which is near the Atlantic coast side of the Isthmus of Panama, was taken by the Costa Ricans after several hours of fighting.

RAIL STRIKE IS INJURIOUS TO PUBLIC.

Atlanta, Ga.—Declaring the strike of Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad employees to be detrimental to the public's interests, the United States Board of Mediation has tendered its services to bring about an agreement between B. L. Bugg, receiver, and the striking employees. Commissioners Chambers and Assistant Commissioner Klutts will arrive here to begin negotiations, according to an announcement by brotherhood officials.

Pay Homage to Champ Clark.

St. Louis, Mo.—Thousands of St. Louisans stood for hours in the rain and paid homage to the memory of Champ Clark. The special train bearing the body arrived from Washington, was delayed when a turbulent engine jumped the tracks, killing a yardman. The body of Mr. Clark was conveyed to the City Hall, where it lay in state. The military guard accompanied the body back to the train and stood watch throughout the night. Departure for Bowling Green, the statesman's home, took place in the morning.

Japanese Kite Festival.

This is a religious festival. The Japs repair in their thousands to the tops of the highest mountains, where they erect light bamboo structures or huts, the roofs of which are protected with matting to keep out the wind and rain.

There the parents go to sit and eat and talk, while their children play about and fly multicolored kites.

Sometimes there are as many as thirty thousand kites of every conceivable shape, size and color flying from a mountain less than a square mile in area.

The spectacle is extremely fascinating, and the kites appear like no many graceful birds or winged griffins, darting hither and thither among the clouds.

Our Threefold Aim: To give the News of Berea and Vicinity; To Record the Happenings of Berea College; To be of Interest to all the Mountain People.

East Kentucky Correspondence News You Get Nowhere Else

No correspondence published unless signed in full by the writer. The name is not for publication, but as an evidence of good faith. Write plainly.

JACKSON COUNTY

McKee

McKee, March 7.—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Levi Powell, February 28, a fine boy.—Jesse Tyra and family from Alvira are moving back to their old home at McKee.—John Welch and family from Hamilton, O., are also moving back.—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Powell will move to their new home in Livingston in a few days. Mr. Powell has the contract to carry the mail on that route.—Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Holler spent several days in Cincinnati last week.—The County Board met in the superintendent's office yesterday for the purpose of organizing the new County Board. They also reelected R. O. Cornelius for Supervisor and pledged themselves to elect Walter Creech as Superintendent, provided he could qualify for that office.—Quite a large crowd attended the community meeting held at the court house last Friday night.—Supt. H. F. Minter and Rev. Fred DeJong gave a very interesting talk on community work. Rev. DeJong favored us with a solo, which was enjoyed very much. W. R. Reynolds presented those that had passed the examination in agriculture a certificate of merit. Those that received them were, Stanley Gabbard of Hurley, Ernest Hornsby, Hugh Gabbard, Walter Boggs, Sarah Glenn, Clara Davis and Wilma Napier. He gave a very interesting address on club work.—Miss Cleo Baker left this morning for Big Hill, where she is employed to teach the remaining term of school.

Hugh

Hugh, March 5.—Mrs. John Clemmons was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wilhern Collins, Sunday.—Mrs. Lucinda Abrams and sons were visiting their cousin, Mrs. J. M. Glossip, at Crooksville last week.—Charles Stewart from the top of the Red Lick hill was visiting his uncle Colman Kindred Sunday.—Violet Mobley, who has been visiting Nannie Clemmons, has returned to her home at Sand Springs.—Rev. J. M. Hardings filled his regular appointment at this place on the fourth. Sunday-school will begin at this place Sunday. Everyone invited.—Gertrude Abrams was visiting friends in Berea Saturday and Sunday.—Stella and Stanley Reece of Berea were visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Reece, Saturday and Sunday.—Mart Abrams has just received a letter from the State Asylum at Lexington stating that his father, old uncle Henry Abrams, is still living and his health is just fine for a man of his age, but his mind is no better. Uncle Henry has been in the asylum three years.—Frank Croley made a business trip to Richmond Monday.—Joe Croley of Bobtown was visiting friends and relatives at this place last week.

Carico

Carico, March 7.—Isaac Himes had a working last week and got lots of work done.—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Himes, the 2nd, a fine girl, named Ida Bell.—Sam Roberts lost a fine cow last week.—Married, the 5th, James Parks of Livingston to Miss Linda Summers, daughter of Henry Summers. We wish them a long and prosperous life.—We are having fine spring weather and farmers in this section are taking advantage of it by plowing.—Mrs. Gilbe Johnson is back from Boyd.—John Summers bought a fine cow of James Davidson of Peoples, Ky., last week. There was a tide in this week.

Parrot

Parrot, March 6.—S. J. Nelson, who has been confined to his bed more than two months, is in a serious condition and not expected to live.—Marion Cornett had a house raising Saturday and received plenty of help.—Mrs. Martha Mellock and Mrs. Myrtle Holcomb of Annville have been visiting their sick father, S. J. Nelson.—Rev. Pearl Hacker filled his appointment Saturday and Sunday.—Adam Price had a clearing last week and got quite a lot of bushes cut.—The infant of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Birch has been sick the past week.—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Cunningham has had a severe case of tonsillitis.—Willie Nelson and sister, Mrs. Minnie Hacker, of Hamilton, O., are at the bedside of their sick father.—Everyone desiring to subscribe for The Citizen, call on Minnie Hillard of Parrot, Ky.

Bradshaw

Bradshaw, March 5.—Andrew Shepherd of Bradshaw and Miss Myrtle Hamilton of Privett were married February 24. The bride, the youngest child of Andy Hamilton, Dr.—On the third day of March Robert Smith and Martha Farmer were united in marriage, both of Bradshaw. The many friends of the young couples join in wishing them many happy years of wedded bliss.—Jeff Boggs had a working Tuesday; twelve men helped and did excellent work.—Miss Amie Turner, who has been staying with Mrs. Charley Ramsey, went home Tuesday.—Miss Marion Baker of McKee was visiting relatives in this vicinity the first of the week.

GARRARD COUNTY

Harmony

Harmony, March 7.—The farmers here are very busy preparing for their crops.—G. B. Colson will have a sale today and will move near Bloomington, Ind., where he has rented a large farm.—Marcellus Wilson of Lexington, Ky., is a guest of his brother, J. C. Wilson.—C. T. VanHook will move to the Cris Weiler place this week.—James and Ed Dickerson were visiting J. B. Corum at Crab Orchard last Sunday.—Gip Carson will move to the C. F. VanHook place this week.—Russ Singleton's house burned one night last week. All its contents were consumed, and he and family narrowly escaped.—Rev. C. H. Peck has been called as pastor of Harmony Baptist church, but may not accept the call.—C. C. McClure of Williamsburg, Ky., was a guest of Rev. W. M. C. Hutchins a day and night last week.—Thornton Mullins is building a nice room to his dwelling house.

CLAY COUNTY

Malcom

Malcom, March 4.—Mrs. M. J. Clarke of Berea spent Sunday with Mrs. Browning, who is still poorly.—Mr. and Mrs. Theo Thomas are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine baby girl.—W. M. Lunce and Miss Bessie Durham were quietly married at the home of the bride last Wednesday.—Leonard Whittemore has returned from Tennessee, where he has been employed.—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Downey have returned from Hamilton, O.—Mr. and Mrs. John Whittemore are the proud parents of a new baby boy.—G. W. Brown and J. L. Pennington made a business trip to Crane Creek Tuesday.—John York is very ill at the home of uncle Billie York's. Uncle Billie also is very poorly.—Mrs. Eliza Ferguson is ill at present.—Victor Browning has returned to his school at Annville.—Farmers are getting busy with their farming in this part.

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY

Johnetta

Johnetta, March 7.—Some people have begun gardening.—Eliza Abney was visiting in this section last week.—W. M. Drew made a business trip to Mt. Vernon last Monday.—Mrs. James Drew was visiting Mrs. Wesley Abney Saturday.—People of this community were shocked by the death of our friend, Mr. Albert Clark. His remains were brought to Johnetta for burial. He leaves a father, mother and a host of friends.—Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ballinger were visiting Ruben Ballinger Saturday and Sunday.

Goochland

Goochland, March 7.—The farmers are beginning to farm.—Tel Alton lost his infant child last Friday night.—There have been several hog buyers passing through here in the last few days.—There was a meeting at Pleasant church yesterday.—A. P. Gabbard is planning to erect a side room to his store, which will be a great improvement.—M. B. Gabbard has a fine line of general merchandise. Prices reasonable.—Burt Phillips and his mother purchased two barrels of flour of M. B. Gabbard a few days ago. They say that it is the best flour that they have bought.—A. P. Gabbard bought him a fine pair of mules a few days ago.

MADISON COUNTY

Silver Creek

Silver Creek, March 7.—Matt Whitmore was called to see his brother, Harrison, on Red Lick, who was very sick and was later taken to the College Hospital, where an operation was performed.—C. L. Johnson of Cincinnati is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Johnson.—Mrs. G. E. Anderson spent Sunday with her brother, Buck Johnson, at Whites Station.—Joe Land has bought a small piece of land adjoining the Gabbard farm and is erecting a building and planning to move soon.—Mrs. Mollie Moore and daughter, Geneva, spent Saturday with her mother, Mr. G. E. Anderson.—Success to The Citizen and its many readers.

Wallace

Wallace, March 7.—Miss Clara Bowlin, Dora Gentry, and Mrs. Joe Goodrich visited Mr. Jas. Wallace Monday.—Miss Fannie Kidd

spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Kidd.—Mrs. Jas. Wallace is suffering with a fractured arm caused by a battle with a sheep last Wednesday.—Mrs. Dovie Watson entertained a number of her friends Saturday night.—The little son of Mrs. Chester Elkin, who has had tonsilitis, is better.—Willie Rogers gave a very interesting talk at the Baptist church Sunday morning. We wish Mr. Rogers success, as he has just started into the ministry.—Hallet Johnson and family and Nath Evans and family visited Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Saturday night.—Bert Quinn was thru here last week buying hogs.—Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Dunn were visitors in Wallaceton Sunday.

Walnut Meadow

Walnut Meadow, March 6.—Lagan Gabbard and family, Heber Morgan and family and C. C. Chrisman are all going to Ohio, where they have employment for the year.—Paul Baylock, who has been working for Edd Kimball since September, has gone to his home in North Carolina.—Elmer Moore lost two valuable cows from eating Paris green left carelessly in a bucket by hired help.—Miss Gertrude Terrill begins school at Todd, Monday.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Anderson and son, Egbert, motored to Richmond Thursday and spent the day with another son, W. T. Anderson.—People are buying their garden seed and getting ready for work. Some plowing is being done by wide-awake farmers.

Harts

Harts, March 8.—We are having fine spring weather thru this section at present.—The farmers are getting busy with their plows.—Zaring McGuire has sold his farm to a Mr. Campbell of Perry county.—Sunday night about 11:30 o'clock quite an accident occurred in front of T. J. Coyle's house on Scaffold Cane pike when a car ran over the bank and rolled over three times. The car was badly hurt. An empty bottle was found on the scene, so old corn liquor was the cause of it all. Mrs. Lettie Browning and children visited Kate Lake Monday evening.—Sunday-school is progressing nicely, with good attendance.—The electric light plant which has been installed in our rural schoolhouse will soon be in use.—Wilson VanWinkle of Big Hill was in our midst Sunday.—Success to The Citizen and its many readers.

OWSLEY COUNTY

Island City

Island City, March 7.—The 4th of March passed, which did away with old things, and, behold, all things are new—peace, good will toward men.—Circuit Court will convene at Booneville, Monday, March 7, with Hon. John C. Eversole presiding.—Services at the Southern church Saturday night conducted by the pastor, Rev. Estriole, of Burning Springs.—The way of the whisky drinkers and makers is hard when they face John Eversole and Commonwealth attorney, G. B. Roberts.—D. Peters and Lincoln Sparks were fined in T. H. Hurst court recently for drunkenness.—A. B. Sparks, who was stricken with paralysis some few days ago, is no better, but is said to be on the decline.—Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Gentry, who have been among relatives, have returned to Finenestle.—The Citizen will not object to new subscribers.

Potts' GOLD DUST Flour

is made of best wheat and by most improved methods

BEST BY TEST

For Sale By All Grocers

R. L. POTTS & SON Whites Station, Ky.

Phone 156-3

POINT FOR HOME BUILDERS

Value of House is Greatly Enhanced by the Presence of Trees and Shrubbery.

If at all possible say specialists of the United States department of agriculture the house should be located in a good tree, the shade of which may be used and enjoyed by the family every day during the summer. Shrubbery should be grown good trees that are already available should be planted and nurtured to the fullest extent.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River—the most wondrous geological and spectacular phenomenon known to man—is in Arizona. Discovered by Spanish explorers in 1540, it has been an object of wonder and admiration ever since. In approaching it your first surprise is that you are not prepared for it. Its beginning is so very abrupt. In one jump from the edge you could go down 2,000 feet.

Viewed from the rim looking down it is a stupendous panorama—an infinite abyss 30,000 to 5,000 feet deep to 13 miles wide and 200 miles long. Its sides are lined with countless and varied ornamental architectural features, the whole beautifully tinted and colored and unceasingly luminous. Seen from the bottom looking up, it is so big that it dwarfs and bewilders one. On every side are endless processions of caves, terraces, pinnacles, towers, buttes, cliffs and pinnacles, storm-carved and weather-worn, many of them higher than any mountain east of the Rockies, yet none of them level with the top. Globe trotters say that nothing else in all the world even remotely approaches this spectacle.

The color composition seems to shift with every movement of the sun clouds or your position. There is a trail to the bottom and a road around the rim.

Really Indian Invention. Arable Ridges were Invented not by the Arabs but by the Indians.

DO YOU HUNT?

IF SO, YOU NEED

THE CHASE MAGAZINE

The Hunt and Home Magazine of America, published monthly in Lexington, Kentucky.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT R. J. Breckinridge Editor Devoted to hunting and toxounds

NEWS NOTES THE CHASE, for the current year, will be brimming full of live, thrilling articles and news notes of interest to every club-hunting sportsman who loves the Great Outdoors.

BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATED The beautiful illustrations in THE CHASE will show the leading writers of the season, people, and scenes of importance in the "Hunt World."

KENNEL NOTES This feature of the magazine gives that personal touch which makes THE CHASE a true home paper for the dog lover.

REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT In this department of THE CHASE will be found an accurate and authoritative breeding of every real dog in America.

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT In the advertising columns of THE CHASE will be found information concerning all up-to-date kennel accessories, dog remedies and foods as well as being a trade mart for the side and racing of blooded dogs.

Subscription Price: 12 months, $2.00; 6 months, $1.00.

THE CHASE PUBLISHING COMPANY, inc. Lexington, Kentucky
202 Herald Building

Your Opportunity

COLLEGiate—The crown of the whole institution, which provides standard courses in all advanced subjects. Courses leading to Classical, Scientific, Philosophical and Literary Degrees.

NORMAL—The school which trains both rural and city teachers, with special attention given to rural teaching. Equal standing with State Normals, and graduates are given state certificates, 1-year, 3-year and 4-year courses. Six-year course beyond the common branches for B.Ped.

ACADEMY—The Preparatory course, four years, is the straight road to College. The English course of two years is designed for those who do not expect to teach nor go through College. It gives the best general education for those who cannot go further in school.

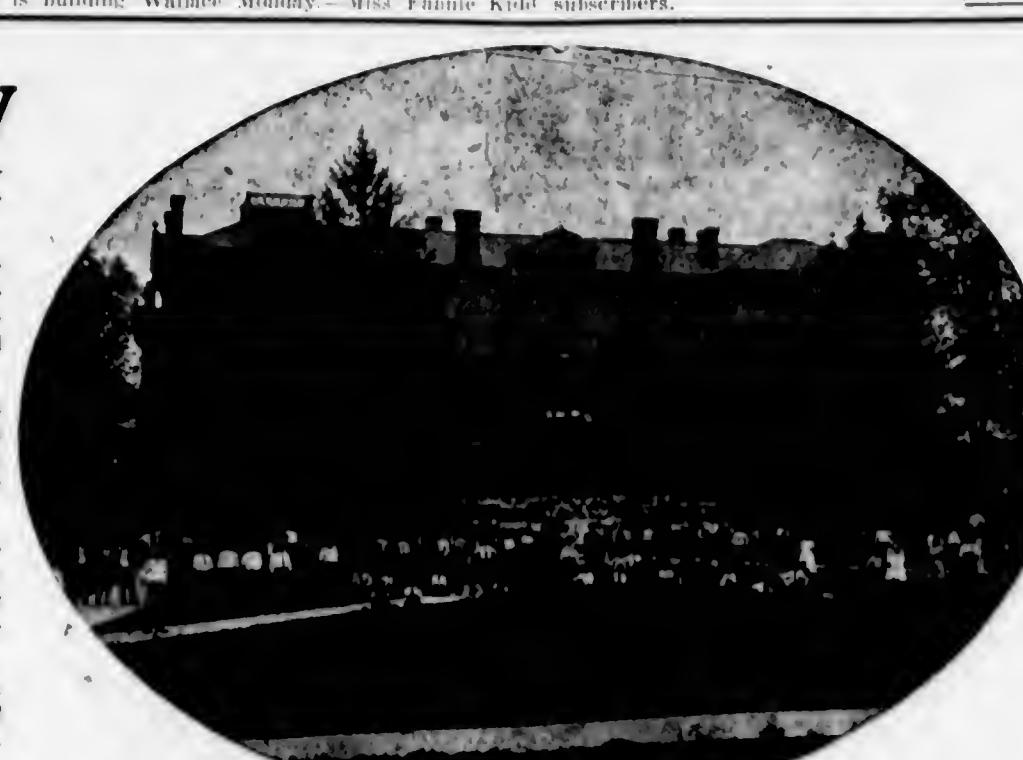

VOCATIONAL—Professional courses combined with literary subjects. For young men: Agriculture, Carpentry, Bricklaying, Printing, Blacksmithing, Painting and Commerce. For young women: Home Science, Sewing, Nursing, Bookkeeping and Stenography.

FOUNDATION SCHOOL—General education in the common branches for students of good mental ability, above 15 years of age, who have been deprived of the advantages of early education.

MUSIC—Cabinet Organ, Piano, Singing, Theory, Band and Orchestra. A fine opportunity to become a good musician at a very low cost.

COST OF LIVING. By good business management and studied economy, the College is able to reduce the cost of living in Berea to the lowest possible figure. The times are working hard against us and the constant battle with the high cost of all commodities is a trying one, but thus far the College has won. Tuition is free, incidental fee $5, $6, and $7. Hospital and lectures are free. All students from the mountains above fifteen years of age, of good character, studious habits and a willingness to work are invited and will find a whole-hearted welcome to Berea, but they must make reservations in advance.

Write for a Catalogue and book of College Regulations, to the College Secretary, MARSHALL E. VAUGHN, Berea, Kentucky.

Ladies Hall and Main Dining Room

Cost Exceedingly Low WITHIN THE REACH OF THE POOR

Any ambitious boy or girl in the mountains can go through Berea College, or any of the Allied Departments, for $150 a year. An each student is required to do some work, the above amount is reduced by the amount of work performed. A student of energy and reliability can greatly reduce the cash payment by work, but no student may expect to work out his entire expenses.

PAYMENT MUST BE IN ADVANCE and may be in cash or labor credits or both.

EXPENSES FOR THE WINTER TERM

Men Women
Incidental fee for the term $ 6.00 $ 6.00
Room upkeep for the term 8.40 8.40
Board, 6 weeks 16.50 15.00

Amount due first of term $30.90 $29.40
Board, 6 weeks, due middle of term $16.50 $15.00

Total for term $47.40 $44.40

For Vocational and Foundation students, subtract $1.00 from the above incidental fee. For College students, add $1.00. Every student must send $4.00 deposit in advance, otherwise, room will not be reserved. Commerce, Stenography, Typewriting and Penmanship are from 50c. to $1.00 a week extra. Music is also from 50c. to $1.00 a week extra.

Copyright. All Rights Reserved

During the latter part of this evidence Travers had fixed his eyes on Gardiner, but the witness had steadily avoided him. Jim was now convinced that he was the victim, not of a coincidence, but a plot. Of course, he could give his evidence, which would be directly contradictory to that of Gardiner, but he was already under suspicion, and anything he might say would be unconsciously discounted by the jurors. But he began calmly, a quiet smile still playing about his thin lips and clean teeth.

"I am sorry I cannot corroborate all the last witness has said," he commenced. "I did not leave the ranch with Biles; on the contrary, I was fishing down by the river when I saw Biles and Gardiner ride by. Gardiner was talking and I heard him mention Mr. Harris' name. I worked for Mr. Harris not long ago, but I did not know he was in this part of the country. I heard Gardiner say—" Jim colored a little, and stopped.

"Well, what did you hear him say?" said the coroner. "That is what we are anxious to know."

"I heard him say something about Mr. Harris losing all his money that night, in the old saloon up the river road. Strange things have happened up there, Biles," he said. "That made me suspicious, and I hurried back to the ranch, determined to follow them. I found that my revolver had been taken. Turned myself as best I could, and set out. When I came near the building which Gardiner had mentioned I dismounted and approached it carefully. It was very dark. Suddenly I was attacked from behind. A sack was thrown over my head, and I was overpowered, and bound. I don't know how long I was kept in that condition, but when at last the sack was removed I was in the presence of Sergeant Grey."

With the progress of Travers' narrative all eyes had turned to Gardiner, but, whatever his inward emotions, he outwardly showed no signs of discomfiture. "This seems to be a day of strange odds," he said to the coroner, "and the last we have heard is stranger than the first. Of course, it is quite absurd on the face of it. The suggestion that I would be a party to robbing Mr. Harris of $20,000, and so back a transaction in which I stood to make a profit of more than twice that amount, is too ridiculous for discussion. I didn't say so before, because it didn't seem to bear on the case, but I have at home a telegram which I received a few days ago from the New York investors, offering me a personal commission of 20 per cent on the transaction if I was able to get this property for them at the price they had offered. So, from a purely selfish point of view, you see where my interests lay. But there are other reasons for this due date which you have just heard. To spare the feelings of some present, I intended to say nothing of them, but if I must tell what I know, why, I must tell what I know. This man Travers was a farm hand working for Harris on his farm back in Manitoba. Harris is—or was, well to do, and Travers accordingly unstrung up an attachment for his daughter. This the young lad, it seems, was foolish enough to return. They—"

"That'll do, Gardiner," interrupted Travers, in a quiet, vibrant voice. "You are getting away from the subject."

"On the contrary, I'm getting close to the subject a little too close for your comfort, it seems."

"I'm not investigating any family closets," said the coroner. "You will have to show the connection between these matters and the inquiry we are making."

"I will do that in a moment, sir," Gardiner retorted. "But I cannot show the connection until I have shown the events that are connected. Travers had trouble with Harris and had a fight with Allan. Then he and the young lad ran away. They have both been in this part of the country for some time. But Travers' plan to inherit the Harris property was upset on account of the girl quarreling with her parents, and his ardor seems to have cooled off noticeably. But he was as keen for the property as ever. It was a weakness in the hands of a man like Travers, and no doubt he betrayed the fact that Harris was taking his money with him into the hills. Then the two of them framed up the plan which has resulted in the death of one and the arrest of the other."

During these exchanges the sympathies of the jurors seemed to veer from side to side. The theories propounded were so contradictory that opinions wavered with each sentence of evidence. But a new bolt was ready for the shooting.

"Mr. Coroner," said Benish, rising and pointing at Gardiner, "will you make that man take his gauntlets off?"

There seemed an instant recession of the blood from Gardiner's face. But it was for the instant only. "My hat is off," he said, with a smile. "Is that sufficient?"

Author of
"The Cow Puncher," Etc.
Illustrations
by Irwin Myers

"Make him take them off," Benish insisted.

"There is no rule against wearing gauntlets in a coroner's court," said the coroner. "I do not see the point of your objection."

"Make him take them off," said Benish.

"As the young lady insists," said the coroner, turning to Gardiner, "I suggest that you comply with her request."

"I should be glad to," said Gardiner, "but the fact is I have a sore hand. When I was giving the horse medicine the night Travers left me alone the bridle nipped me a little, and I have been keeping it covered up since."

"Make him take them off," said Benish.

"Why should you be so insistent?" said the coroner. "Surely it makes no difference—"

"Only this difference. You have heard my father's evidence of the fight in the old house. The man with whom he fought will have tooth marks in his hand. Make him take them off. Or if you won't—look at these hands." She seized Jim's hands in hers and held them up before the coroner and the jury. "Any tooth marks there? Now make this other man show his."

For a moment all eyes were on Travers' hands. In that moment Gardiner rushed for the open window, and in another instant would have been through it, had not the quick arm of the policeman intercepted. "Not so fast, my man," said Grey. "Now we will see this horse bite of yours." Gardiner made no further resistance, and he drew the glove from his hand. There was a fresh scar on the right thumb.

The coroner examined it carefully. When he spoke it was in the voice of a judge delivering sentence. "That is not a horse bite," he said. "Those are the marks of human teeth."

Gardiner smiled a faint smile. "Well, what are you going to do about it?" he said.

"We are going to put you in Travers' place and tender him our apologies," said the coroner.

But Travers had crowded into the center of the circle. "Gardiner," he said. "If you weren't under arrest I'd thrash you here and now. But you can at least do something to square yourself. Where is that money?"

"That's right, Jim. Everyone thinks of what is nearest his heart."

"You scoundrel! You know why it is near my heart. You have robbed Mr. Harris of all that he had spent his whole life for. You will have no chance to use that money yourself. You are sure of your living for the next 20 years. Why not show that you are not all bad—that you have some human sentiments in you? It seems as little as you can do."

"There may be something in what you say," said Gardiner. "I have a slip of paper here with the key to the secret."

He reached with his finger and thumb in his vest pocket and drew out a small folded paper. This he unfolded very slowly and deliberately before the eyes of the onlookers. It contained a small quantity of white powder. Before any hand could reach him he had thrown his hand back and swallowed it.

"Too late!" he cried, as Grey snatched the empty paper from his fingers. "Too late! Well, I guess I beat you all out, eh? And, as I said before, what are you going to do about it? Twenty years, eh, Jim? You'll be senile and rheumatic by that time, and the beautiful Biles will be fat and figureless. Twenty years for you, Jim, but 20 minutes for me—and I wouldn't trade with you, damn you! I beg the pardon of the ladies present. She should never forget to be a gentleman, even when—"

But Gardiner's breath was beginning to come fast, and he raised his hands to his throat. A choking spell seized him, and he would have fallen had not the policeman and the coroner held him on his feet. "Let me down," he said, when he got his breath. "Let me lie down, can't you? I have got to die on end, like a murderer?"

They led him to the adjoining room, where he fell upon the bed. The muscles of his great arms and neck were working in contortions, and his tongue seemed to fill his mouth.

"Most extraordinary," said the coroner. "Strychnine, doubtless. We can't do much for him, I'm afraid. We might try some mustard and hot water, Mrs. Arthurs."

"Take your time, Jim," whispered Arthurs. "You may save your country a long board bill." But Lillian Arthurs' abhorrence of Gardiner's perfidy had been overwhelmed in a wave of sympathy for a suffering fellow being. She hurried to the kitchen, while the men of the party fled down the stairs and out into the yard. John Harris was the last to leave the house, and he walked slowly, with bare, bowed head, into the group who were excitedly discussing the amazing ultra events had taken. He took a part in their conversation, but stood a little apart, plunged deep in his own inner struggles.

"Have I Got to Die on End, Like a Murderer?"

At last he turned and called his wife in the kitchen door. "Bring Benish," he said.

The two women joined him. At first Harris stood with face averted, but in a moment he spoke in a clear, quiet voice.

"I haven't played the game fair with you two," he said, "and I want to say so now. Perhaps it would be truer to say that I played the wrong game. Twenty-five years have proved it was the wrong game. Now, without a penny, I can start just where I started 25 years ago. The only difference is that I am an old man instead of a young one. I'm going to take another homestead and start again at the right game, if Mary will start with me."

She put her hand in his, and her eyes were bright again with the fire of youth. "You know there is only one answer, John," she whispered.

Harris called Travers over from the group of men.

"There's one thing more," he continued. "When I started I had only a wife to keep, and I don't intend to take any bigger responsibility now. Allan will be having a homestead of his own. Jim Travers, I am speaking to you! I owe you an apology for some things and an explanation for some things, but I'm going to square the debt with the only gift I have left."

The light breeze tossed the hair of Benish's uncovered head, and the light of love and health glowed in her face and thrilled through the fine symmetry of her figure.

"Take her, Jim," he said.

"She is a goodly gift," said the young man reverently.

"You think so now," said her father. "You know nothing about it. In twenty-five years you will know just how great a gift she is—or she will not be worthy of her mother."

Harris and his wife were gazing with unseeing eyes into the mountains when Arthurs handed them a letter. "It came in the mail which the boys brought out this morning," he said, "and I forgot all about it until this minute."

It was from Bradshaw. Harris opened it indifferently, for the first few lines aroused his interest, and he read it eagerly to the end.

"My dear Harris," it ran, "on receipt of your telegram I immediately opened negotiations through my connections looking to the sale of your farm with its crop and equipment, complete as a going concern. I succeeded in getting an offer of the $10,000 you set on it, and had all the papers drawn up, when I discovered that among us we find under serious suspicion. You will remember that, a good many years ago, when you were taking on some fresh obligations, you transferred the homestead into your wife's name. I assured the purchaser that there would be no difficulty about getting title from your wife, but as all the buildings are on the homestead quarter he would agree to nothing better than paying $20,000 for the rest of your land, leaving the homestead quarter, with the buildings, stock and implements out of the transaction. As his price seemed a fair one for the balance of the property, and as I assumed your need of the money was urgent, I closed a deal on that basis, cested the agreement and remitted the proceeds to you at once by wire. I trust my actions in the matter meet with your approval."

"Yours sincerely,

"GEORGE BRADSHAW."

Harris placed the letter in the hands of his wife. She tried to read it, but a great happiness enveloped her as a flood and the typewritten characters seemed to swim before her.

"What does it mean, John?" she asked, noting his restrained excitement.

"What does it mean?"

"It means that the homestead quarter was not sold—after all—that it is still yours, with the buildings, and machinery, and stock, and this year's crop just ready for cutting."

She raised her eyes to his. "Still ours, John, you mean. Still ours."

In the rapid succession of events everyone seemed to have forgotten, or disregarded, Gardiner. But at this moment the doctor came rushing out of the house.

"Gardiner's gone!" he exclaimed, as he came up to the men.

Some of the party removed their hats.

"Oh, not that way—not that way!" exclaimed the doctor. "I mean he's gone—skipped beat it. If you understand. Most extraordinary! I was taking his pulse. It was about normal, and he seemed resting easier, so I slipped downstairs for the antidote. When I went back—I was only gone a moment—there wasn't a sight or sound of him."

Sergeant Grey conducted a swift examination, not of Gardiner's room, but of the one in which Allan was lying. He was rewarded by finding the little slip of paper, with a few crystals of powder still clinging to it. The coroner examined the crystals through his magnifying glass; then, somewhat dubiously, raised them on a moistened finger to his tongue, and after a moment's hesitation swallowed in an impressive, scholarly fashion.

"Succinarnit album!" he exclaimed. "Common white sugar! Most extraordinary!"

But Sergeant Grey was at the open window. It was only an eight-foot drop to the soft earth, and to the policeman there was no longer any mystery in Gardiner's disappearance. The stock saddle was a carefully planned ruse to be employed by Gardiner if the worst came to the worst.

"I want all of you, men and a horse for each," said Grey, quickly, turning upon them like a general marshalling his officers. "There are a dozen different trails he may follow, and we must put a man on each. I will give immediate pursuit. In the hope of riding him down before he can throw us off the scent and I will leave it to you, Mr. Arthurs, to organize the posse and rescue the whole country until he is located."

Grey knew that the main road, if followed far enough, dwindled into a pack trail, which in turn seemed to lose itself in the fastnesses of the mountains. The only difference is that I am an old man instead of a young one. I'm going to take another homestead and start again at the right game, if Mary will start with me."

The light breeze tossed the hair of Benish's uncovered head, and the light of love and health glowed in her face and thrilled through the fine symmetry of her figure.

"Take her, Jim," he said.

"She is a goodly gift," said the young man reverently.

"You think so now," said her father. "You know nothing about it. In twenty-five years you will know just how great a gift she is—or she will not be worthy of her mother."

Harris and his wife were gazing with unseeing eyes into the mountains when Arthurs handed them a letter. "It came in the mail which the boys brought out this morning," he said, "and I forgot all about it until this minute."

It was from Bradshaw. Harris opened it indifferently, for the first few lines aroused his interest, and he read it eagerly to the end.

"My dear Harris," it ran, "on receipt of your telegram I immediately opened negotiations through my connections looking to the sale of your farm with its crop and equipment, complete as a going concern. I succeeded in getting an offer of the $10,000 you set on it, and had all the papers drawn up, when I discovered that among us we find under serious suspicion. You will remember that, a good many years ago, when you were taking on some fresh obligations, you transferred the homestead into your wife's name. I assured the purchaser that there would be no difficulty about getting title from your wife, but as all the buildings are on the homestead quarter he would agree to nothing better than paying $20,000 for the rest of your land, leaving the homestead quarter, with the buildings, and machinery, and stock, and this year's crop just ready for cutting."

She raised her eyes to his. "Still ours, John, you mean. Still ours."

In the rapid succession of events everyone seemed to have forgotten, or disregarded, Gardiner. But at this moment the doctor came rushing out of the house.

"Gardiner's gone!" he exclaimed, as he came up to the men.

Some of the party removed their hats.

"Oh, not that way—not that way!" exclaimed the doctor. "I mean he's gone—skipped beat it. If you understand. Most extraordinary! I was taking his pulse. It was about normal, and he seemed resting easier, so I slipped downstairs for the antidote. When I went back—I was only gone a moment—there wasn't a sight or sound of him."

Sergeant Grey conducted a swift examination, not of Gardiner's room, but of the one in which Allan was lying. He was rewarded by finding the little slip of paper, with a few crystals of powder still clinging to it. The coroner examined the crystals through his magnifying glass; then, somewhat dubiously, raised them on a moistened finger to his tongue, and after a moment's hesitation swallowed in an impressive, scholarly fashion.

"Succinarnit album!" he exclaimed. "Common white sugar! Most extraordinary!"

But Sergeant Grey was at the open window. It was only an eight-foot drop to the soft earth, and to the policeman there was no longer any mystery in Gardiner's disappearance. The stock saddle was a carefully planned ruse to be employed by Gardiner if the worst came to the worst.

"I want all of you, men and a horse for each," said Grey, quickly, turning upon them like a general marshalling his officers. "There are a dozen different trails he may follow, and we must put a man on each. I will give immediate pursuit. In the hope of riding him down before he can throw us off the scent and I will leave it to you, Mr. Arthurs, to organize the posse and rescue the whole country until he is located."

The light breeze tossed the hair of Benish's uncovered head, and the light of love and health glowed in her face and thrilled through the fine symmetry of her figure.

"Take her, Jim," he said.

"She is a goodly gift," said the young man reverently.

"You think so now," said her father. "You know nothing about it. In twenty-five years you will know just how great a gift she is—or she will not be worthy of her mother."

It was from Bradshaw. Harris opened it indifferently, for the first few lines aroused his interest, and he read it eagerly to the end.

"My dear Harris," it ran, "on receipt of your telegram I immediately opened negotiations through my connections looking to the sale of your farm with its crop and equipment, complete as a going concern. I succeeded in getting an offer of the $10,000 you set on it, and had all the papers drawn up, when I discovered that among us we find under serious suspicion. You will remember that, a good many years ago, when you were taking on some fresh obligations, you transferred the homestead into your wife's name. I assured the purchaser that there would be no difficulty about getting title from your wife, but as all the buildings are on the homestead quarter he would agree to nothing better than paying $20,000 for the rest of your land, leaving the homestead quarter, with the buildings, and machinery, and stock, and this year's crop just ready for cutting."

She raised her eyes to his. "Still ours, John, you mean. Still ours."

Local Page

News of Berea and Vicinity, Gathered from a Variety of Sources.

Henry Combs, who has been away
for some time, has returned home.

Alexander Black is very ill of pneumonia at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Jackson, but is slowly improving.

Mrs. Montgomery Jackson is able to be out again, having been threatened with pneumonia.

Mrs. Roseine Sanders spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. D.
W. Jackson.

Hugh Mahaffey, of the College department, who has been ill in the hospital for a few days, has gone to his home at Richmond to stay the rest of the week for recuperation.

Montgomery Jackson has purchased a farm on the Dixie Highway known as the Dizney place. He is moving today.

Miss Lelin Jane Harris spent the week-end in Richmond with her parents.

Mrs. Powell on Center street has been very sick with pneumonia, but is improving now.

Chester Parks has purchased the
New System Bakery from Scruggs & Seale.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R. R.

Berea, Ky.

Northbound Trains

No. 34 Cincinnati .. 3:56 a.m.
No. 38 Cincinnati .. 1:02 p.m.
No. 32 Cincinnati .. 6:03 p.m.

Southbound Trains

No. 31 Atlanta 12:22 a.m.
No. 33 Atlanta 12:26 p.m.
No. 37 Knoxville ... 12:48 p.m.

NEW SCHEDULE OF THE BEREAL-
RICHMOND AUTO LINE

Leave Richmond 7:00 a.m.
Leave Berea 10:00 a.m.

At night after the Arrival of Cincinnati and Louisville trains (new trains), we

Leave Richmond 8:00 p.m.
Leave Berea 8:45 p.m.

Miss Mayme Black of Richmond is visiting her uncle, J. H. Jackson.
Mr. and Mrs. Turner Gott are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter, on March 6, named Margaret Ruth.

1. A. Bowles, a former graduate of Berea, and who has recently finished his law course at Yale, was a Berea visitor Tuesday of this week.

Little James R. Jackson, son of Montgomery Jackson, had a very painful accident Saturday afternoon, dislocating the bones of his arm at his elbow. He was coasting on the pavement.

UNION CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Barton of Oak Park, Ill., will conduct the mid-week services in Union church next Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Hutchins' topic next Sunday at 11 a.m. will be, "Moral Values."

GOOD NEWS!

Rodeheaver will be assisted in his entertainment by his sister, Ruth Rodeheaver. Don't forget it's Monday, March 14, 7:30, at Berea College Chapel.—Advertisement.

JACKSON STREET MEETING
POSTPONED

On account of the Rodeheaver entertainment Monday night, March 14,
the meeting of Jackson Street League will be postponed until Monday evening, March 21.

KINGSTON SCHOOL BEGINS

Kingston, March 9.—Kingston
Graded School will open Monday, March 14. Because of the sickness of the Principal's mother and the illness of Miss Hibbard, who has had the mumps, it was impossible to begin the school last Monday when the other schools of the county began.

Every pupil is urged to be present on time Monday and to attend regularly throughout the remaining two months of the school year. Miss Powell hopes to soon begin the regular community meeting which proved so interesting and profitable during the fall.

Raine or shine, come to the Concert given by the Rodeheavers. It will pay you for any effort you make.—Advertisement.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The general meeting of the Woman's Club was held in the parlor at Boone Tavern Wednesday, March 2, with Mrs. Best, vice president, in the chair. The meeting was one of interest and enthusiasm. Fifty members were present. Mrs. Baird and Mrs. Houk were the hostesses. The time was given mostly to business and the open discussion of very important topics that interest all of us, whether members of a club or citizens of Berea.

Reports from the various departments show genuine interest in the welfare of their work. The work is going forward. We realize there is no standstill, and we want to see Berea a modern town with respect to its social as well as its moral and educational viewpoints. Mrs. R. F.
Spence very ably presented her subject, "Better Social and Educational Conditions as Means of Solving the Rural Problem." Adjourned to meet with Mrs. Ernberg, April 6.

Four Stars Cut From One Jewel.

The Four Stars of Africa were cut from the huge Cullinan diamond, which weighed 13½ pounds when discovered in Pretoria in 1902 and presented by the Union of South Africa.
It looked like a lump of rock salt, and experts said it would have to be divided in the cutting. The largest portion was cut in a pear-shaped brilliant and set in the head of the king's scepter.
The next largest portion was cut in cushion shape and set in the band of the king's state crown. The other two portions are in the band and cross of the queen's state crown. The largest portion weighs 516½ carats, and the four together 986 carats.

Eyebrows Tell a Story.

An Indian doctor has been making a study of the eyebrow, and he has found that in dementia puerorum there are nearly always short, bushy hairs nearly meeting in the space between the eyebrows and a noticeable thinning toward the external side. In epileptic women the eyebrow is made up of two portions; the inside is in the form of a comma, of which the tail enters in the two branches of the external portion in the form of a Y.
In epileptic men one often sees large tufted heavily bushy eyebrows, united at the median line. In manic depressive cases the absence of the outer third of the eyebrow is common.

WOMAN'S CLUB PARTY

One of the most delightful and well-attended social events of the Woman's Club since its organization was the colonial party February 22 in Vocational Chapel. Everyone was all smiles and every feature of the party was wholesome fun and talented entertainment.

All enjoyed the Grand March by H. E. Taylor. As in the days of our youth, we stepped to the tune of the piano, by the sides of a chas-
ten friend, and laughed and exchanged words of greeting that brought back the old time socials when we were boys and girls together. Charades were so arranged that everyone present could actively take part and showed real thought in presenting them. The music, Professor Big-by and Miss Forman, with Miss Jameson at the piano, Dean Waugh accompanied by Mrs. Waugh, was the best and most appreciative type.

The readings given by Mrs. Livengood were greatly enjoyed and, of course, the eats, brick ice cream, red, white and blue, old time cake, mints. The decorations were in honor of the day, George Washington's picture being in a prominent place. All departed at a reasonable hour, with hopes that we might often enjoy such occasions.

"Rhody" is Coming

Rodeheaver, the man who pleases Berea better than anybody that comes, will be here Monday, March 14. A wonderful trombonist, story teller and singer. (Billy Sunday's singer). He bubbles with enthusiasm and good cheer. He makes you laugh with his wholesome fun, and he touches your heart with the phenomenal, both in song and story. In Berea he has for his accompanist Howard E. Taylor. They went together, these two, through campaigns in France carrying joy to the boys who fought for liberty.
Auspices of Women's Club, Benefit of Civic Work

Matinee at 2 p.m., open to all students, college and public school.

EVENING PROGRAM, 7:30, OPEN
TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC

Roosevelt Said:

"Extravagance rots character; train youth away from it. On the other hand, the habit of saving money, while it stiffens the will, also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save."

Help your children to begin right by opening a Savings Account for them. See that they add to it regularly. It will help them to be frugal and thrifty.

We Give Special Attention to Children's Savings Accounts

Berea National Bank

All kinds of bulk Garden
Seeds ready for sale.

First Car of Seed Oats being unloaded to-day.

Come now and get Seed
Potatoes, all varieties.

Come on to our store

The coming crowd is growing daily

Quick Service is Our Motto

HENSLEY & DAVIDSON

In Welch Block

Berea, Ky.

Everybody Knows "Honest Abe"

Come to us for Seed Oats and Seed Potatoes. We have bought out the stock of Berea Hardware & Grocery Co., and added to the stock and have a complete line of Hardware and Farming Implements, Groceries and Feed. We sell as low as anyone in town and delivery (two trucks standing ready) and if your credit is good we will credit you.

A. B. Cornett & Sons

Main Street - - - - - Berea, Kentucky

Tinning, Plumbing, Roofing

I am ready to do all kinds of work in these lines, and shall be pleased to figure with you on your jobs.

ALL WORK WILL BE WELL DONE

HUGH LOGAN

KENTUCKY

List Your Property

FOR SALE

with

Scruggs, Welch & Gay
REAL ESTATE AGENTS
Berea, Kentucky

F. L. MOORE'S

Jewelry Store

FOR

First Class Repairing

AND

Fine Line of Jewelry

MAIN ST. BEREAL KY.

Jennie B. Fish Co.

requests

the honor of your presence

at the exhibition

of

Spring and Summer Fashions presenting

the season's smartest modes

in

Millinery, Dresses, Suits, Skirts, Coats and Blouses

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY
March 17th, 18th and 19th

Jennie B. Fish Co.

IT'S TRUE!

The Statement I Make, "WE DON'T COBBLE SHOES," WE MAKE THEM AS GOOD AS
NEW, using only the BEST of material and working honestly to our customer's interest. Prices the lowest, service the quickest, and the best of treatment.
Open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Try THOMA
Short Street Berea, Ky.

Notary Public Phone No. 49

W. B. WALDEN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Practice in all Courts Berea Nail. Bank Bldg.
BEREA, KY.

SEE W. F. KIDD FOR

REAL ESTATE

BEREA - KENTUCKY

THE CITIZEN

A non-partisan family newspaper published every Thursday by BEREA PUBLISHING CO. (Incorporated)

MARSHALL E. VAUGHN, Editor J. O. LEHMAN, Associate Editor and Business Manager

Entered at the post office at Berea, Ky., as second class mail matter.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, $1.50; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents. Payable in advance.

Foreign Advertising Representative, The American Press Association.

The Oratorical Contest

In another column of this paper is published the account of the State Oratorical Contest held in Berea on Saturday evening, March 5. William O. Keller of the Junior Class of Berea College carried off the laurels. The contest as a whole was of a high order, and the honor of winning the prize should be of unusual importance in the life of any student.

Contests in oratory and debating are more valuable than contests in athletic sports because it is a competition among minds where men are supposed to excel. Athletics are valuable, but more ruptures between student bodies and exhibitions of the frailties of human nature result from athletic contests than from debating or declaiming contests. The Citizen extends its congratulations to Mr. Keller in this triumph and wishes him victory in the Interstate Contest to be held in Wisconsin early in April.

The Dust Trail of the League of Nations

Those of our good American citizens who deceived themselves into thinking that President Harding did not mean what he said when he rejected every form of a League of Nations during his campaign speeches will have another thought coming. They did Mr. Harding an injustice by arguing that he was for a League of Nations, and that his pronouncements against one were merely campaign arguments to quiet obstreperous politicians and "bitter-end" Senators. His speech of acceptance of the nomination was a doubtful speech against the League. And as the front-porch campaign advanced, his declarations against the League became more emphatic, and the cap ahen was carefully put in place by his complete repudiation of it in his inaugural address.

Mr. Harding may be right. It may be the best for America and everybody concerned that we cut the ties of brotherhood and go it alone. We are not making an issue of the League of Nations now, because, as far as America is concerned, there is no League. The only issue that we are making is that somebody is due to make an apology to Mr. Harding. Senator Borah and Senator Johnson said they were of one accord with Mr. Harding, and they spoke truthfully. They never entertained any doubts as to the fate of the League of Nations. They both prophesied that in the near future, so far as America is concerned, the League of Nations would be a dream, a myth, a mere trail of dust. Their prophecy is so nearly come true that the cloud of dust caused by the fleeing League is settling so fast as to obliterate its tracks.

We predict that America will some day enter the League; that we will take our place in the concourse of nations and supply that strong moral force for righting the wrongs of the human race and setting up standards of national ethics that we have been supplying on the American continent since the days of Washington.

It is probably best that we take time in this great advance to allow the less altruistic and the less idealistic of our citizenship to catch up with their thinking. Some day we will be in the League of Nations, but we must maintain our faith in the integrity and the honesty of President Harding by predicting that it will not come during his administration.

baker and candlestick maker, and orders everything they have in their joints, and has it charged to her husband.

"As your sway-backed professor said, a short journey was a serious business in the old days, and as a result people stayed home and attended to their knitting. If a woman journeyed nine miles in one of the old-time coaches she had a backache for three weeks, and so the idea of going away from home didn't fill her with enthusiasm. But nowadays traveling is a luxury. All a woman has to do is to hold up her husband for the fare, and then the urban railway people do the rest, and make everything so comfortable for her that she hates the idea of ever returning home. And because of this luxury women are forever laying up expenses for a trip somewhere. Kersmith told me the other day that his wife traveled three hundred miles and back to match a ribbon, the local stores not having the exact shade she wanted. Kersmith is just about three cubits ahead of the sheriff, and his wife knows it, but she wouldn't let a small matter like that interfere with her trip.

"In the halcyon days people used to tallow candles and were all the better for it. There was no satisfaction in reading by a candle, so men didn't blow in their substance for fool books and magazines. The candlestick kicked up such a smell that they were extinguished as early as possible, and so no money was wasted. Now we have the electric light, which is a great convenience. It is such a thundering convenience, Mrs. Jamesworthy, that it is greasing the road to the poorhouse for innumerable heartbreak husbands. The average citizen finds it impossible to convince his wife and daughters and other female relatives that the electric juice costs money, and so his home is illuminated from basement to garret every night. Few women remember to turn off the light after having it turned on. If I drop dead of heart failure one of these days, it will be when looking over the electric light bill. In the old days—"

"It is true there were no alleged conveniences. In those days," replied Jamesworthy, "and for that reason I think the old times were better than the present. I only wish the old conditions could be restored. A hundred years ago the married man had no reason to dread the poorhouse. It was practically impossible for women to be extravagant then. If they wanted to blow themselves they had to go to town, and in order to get to town they had to ride in old coaches which weren't as comfortable as a modern bryar.

"The woman of a hundred years ago couldn't lean back in an easy chair and order a hundred dollars' worth of junk by phone. If she ordered by letter, it took the letter three weeks to get anywhere, and by the time the goods arrived they were out of date, and she had to send them back. It would be a great blessing if things were that way now.

"But the modern married woman has the softest nap ever invented. Mrs. Jamesworthy. If she happens to be too lazy to put on her brass-mounted harness and go downtown to do her shopping, she has that great modern convenience at her elbow. It isn't necessary to make herself presentable to do her shopping. She sits down with an old wrapper on, and her top-knot askew, and her mouth full of bryarines, and calls on the butcher and

MARCH

Chile, dia month 'll run me crazy,
I jes dunno whut to say,
Ma'ch is heah befo' I known hit—
Come a-sippin' in terday.
Yassuh! Got heah soon dis mawnin',
Smilin' all erbout de place,
But Ise juhuh, Chile, Ise juhuh—
I don't like dat smilin' facel

Nex' you knows, he'll be a-cryin'—
Likely rave aroun' an' swear,
Howlin' up m' down de country
Like de debbil on a tear.
Den he'll sohah up right sudden,
An' de clouds'll elave de sun—
But fo' me dat act o' wenthah's
Jes a little wuss dan none!

Ma'ch is wil' an' Ma'ch is dang'us, Ma'ch'll fool you if he can—
Ise a-huntin' up my fish-hooks
An' my ovahcont an' fun.
Ma'ch is like a cuilid prenchah
Wid his gizzud full o' booze,
A' sweatin' prayahs nn razahs
Funi his neck-tie to his shoes.

But hit tikes all kin's o' people,
White an' Cullud, Red an' Brown, Fo' to muke dg' worl' we live in—
An' dey's Chinamuns in town.
Hit's de good days an' de bad uns,
Hit's de laftah an' de teahs,
Wid de sunshine an' de shadders
Makes de lifetime an' de yeahs.

—Alson Baker

WAITING IN THE NAVY

Life in the Navy is one long wait—
Waiting is part of the game.
Better men than I have stood in line,
Men who have won honor and fame.

I cau imngine old Admiral Farragut
In a chow line for an hour or so,
And John Paul Jones, a sea-faring
man,

Serendy waiting for pay-call to blow.

Then we have Admiral Dewey,
To him S & A forms were clear,
And in order to rate a flying flag,
He waited for many a year.

Here we line up to go to school,
And we form a line for chow,
We stand in line for a liberty pass,
And we're in line for a rating now.

I am waiting for two years to pass,
Two years of life at sea,
Then I'll be able to be with the girl
That means all the world to me.

—A. Moore, AS-Y.

Caesar's Words.

Julius Caesar is credited with the saying, which means, "I came, I saw, I conquered." In connection with his victories in Pontus, a kingdom of Asia Minor, B. C. 47. The historian Suetonius states that the words were displayed before Caesar's title in his public triumph, to indicate the rapidity with which the campaign was concluded. Plutarch, in his life of Caesar, says the latter, in the account he gave one of his Roman friends of his victory over Pharnaces at Zela in Pontus, used the three words as a concise summary of the expedition.

CANDEE HATCHED CHICKS
The Kind that Live and Grow

It does not pay you to spend the time and trouble bothering with the fussy, uncertain hen when you can have your eggs hatched by us in a safe and sure hot water Candee Incubator at the small cost of $3.00 a tray of 75 eggs.

SEND YOUR EGGS TO US AND GET MORE AND BETTER
CHICKS

Your eggs will be doubly safeguarded by an automatic regulator at each Incubator compartment and another regulator at the heater.

This and the healthy hot water heat insures your getting the greatest number of chicks that will live and grow into profitable layers and breeders.

S. C. RHODE ISLAND RED CHICKS
$22.00 Per Hundred

We have a limited number of day-old chicks from heavy-laying strains of WHITE ROCKS and WHITE WYANDOTTES to offer at this price.

Hatching eggs and breeders also for sale at reasonable prices.

Come and see for yourself the strong, sturdy chicks and the mammoth Candee Incubator in operation.

BEREA HATCHERY

E. H. Bartlett Berea, Ky.

Sausages.

Surprising as it may seem, there are 1,700 different varieties of sausages in the world today. All nationalities have certain national dishes, and some form of sausage seems included in the cuisine of every country. China makes sausages, and very good ones, from the eastern point of view. Germany is predominantly a sausage-eating nation. Great quantities of this food are consumed by the people of Latin countries. In Italy and France they are eaten more as a relish than as a dish, and the noonday meal often commences with thin slices of cold sausage, flanked with a few olives and a pat of fresh butter. Sausages in France are associated with certain fete days, and a kind of blood sausage is always served at the Christmas eve supper. Neither is sausage a modern food, born of economy and the utilizing of meat scraps. The town of Koenigsburg, Germany, in 1558, celebrated the national dish by making a huge sausage more than 600 feet long.

Strike in New Zealand.

It was in October, 1913, that New Zealand experienced a food and fuel shortage as a result of a general strike, which began with a walkout of shipwrights. New Zealand had been referred to frequently as "a land without strikes" by magazine writers, who found in its labor and social laws material for much praise. Its industrial laws often were held up as models. New Zealand is a British colonial possession, discovered by Tasman in 1642. The settlers have been often at war with the natives, the Maoris. The dominion does not have a socialist government, although it has adopted radically socialist policies. The government is vested in a governor, appointed by the crown, and a general assembly consisting of a legislative council, appointed by the governor, and a house of representatives, elected.

Plaster Easily Mended.

If plaster on the walls shows cracks and breaks it is not difficult to mend this yourself. Get a little plaster of paris from the drug store. Mix this with water to make a smooth paste and then plaster the cracks, smoothing off the surface with a perfectly smooth board for a lathe. When this is perfectly dry you can apply a coat of calcimine or one of the patented wall paints and the effect should be all that you desire. It is very much better to have all shelves well painted with two coats of white paint and a finishing coat of enamel than to leave the boards in natural condition. If they are painted they may be washed off easily, whereas if they are not painted they become discolored and soiled and cannot be restored.

TRY THOMA

Short Street Berea, Ky.

Quality that will appeal at prices that are right

Clothing Shoes Sweaters

For Men and Young Fellows

Glad to have you call

J. M. Coyle & Co.
Chestnut St., Berea, Ky.

Berea College Hospital

Best Equipment and Service at Lowest Cost. Wards for Men and for Women. Sun-Palace, Private Rooms, Baths, Electric Service.

Surgery, Care in Child-birth, Eye, Nose and Ear
GENERAL PRACTICE

Come in and visit an establishment, which is a treat in need, and in reach of all the people.

ROBERT H. COWLEY, M.D., Physician

HARLAN DUDLEY, M.D., Physician

MARY S. WETMORE, M. D., Physician

MISS MARY LONGACRE, R. N., Superintendent

MISS HILDA SILBERMANN, R. N., Head Nurse

CHANGE IN RATES

Beginning March 1, the rates for board and room of private patients will be $1 to $18 per week. The rates for patients cared for in the wards will remain the same—$1 per day.

By Order of Prudential Committee, Berea College

Stop! Look! Buy!

Building To Be Torn Down

We are forced to go out of business. Our entire stock must be sold at once. Everything reduced to move quickly.

Sale Now On—One Week Only

Our stock consists of a full line of groceries, dairy feed, horse and mule feed, oats, hay, some hardware, also a small line of overalls, shirts, collars, ties, ladies' and children's underwear, stockings, and numerous other articles. Bargains await those who come early.

Terms Cash

M. H. GABBARD & SONS

Next to Berea Bank & Trust Co.

Berea, Ky.

PUBLIC SALE!

As administratrix of the estate of Carlos E. Moore, deceased, I will offer for sale at the home place on Walnut Meadow Pike, five miles from Berea, on Tuesday, March 22, 1921

promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described property:

| | |
|---|---|
| 60 Sheats, av. 120 lbs. home raised | 1 Deering Mower, good as new |
| 2 Sows and Pigs | 2 Walking Cultivators |
| 7 Milk Cows | 1 Cutting Harrow |
| 1 Registered Shorthorn Bull Calf | 2 Vulcan Plows |
| 3 Registered Shorthorn Cows with male calves. | 1 Wheat Drill |
| 12 Yearling Steers | 1 two-Horse Corn Planter |
| 8 Calves | 2 Drag Harrows |
| 1 3-year-old Bay Mare, extra good | 1 Complete Set Shop tools |
| 1 aged Brood Mare, in foal to jack | 1 Silo Filler, one-half interest |
| 1 Bay Mare, seven yrs. old in foal to jack | 100 Barrels of Corn |
| 1 Buggy and Harness | 1 Buggy and Harness |
| 1 Gray Buggy Mare | 1 Fairbanks-Morse Scales |
| 1 Team, 4 and 5 years old, half Norman | 1 Wheat Fnn |
| | 1 Sled |
| 1 Farm Wagon, Old Hickory | 1 Saddle and Bridle |
| 1 New Farm Wagon | Miscellaneous Tools |
| 1 Deering Binder, good as new | 1 Studebaker Six Automobile, run less than 1,600 miles. |

EVERY ARTICLE TO BE SOLD—NO BY-BIDDING

Terms liberal and made known on day of sale.

MRS. CARLOS E. MOORE, Administratrix

COL. JESSE COBB, Auctioneer

Berea, Ky., Paint Lick Route

Classified Advertisements

EGGS FOR SALE—Pure-Bred Buff Orpington eggs at $1.00 per set Orpington eggs at $1.00 per set
Howard Hudson, Jackson St

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE
A Registered Saddle Stallion and Good Jack. J. W. Herndon, Berea, Ky.

EGGS FOR SETTING
Plymouth (Barred) Rocks, 75 cents a setting. Thomas A. Edwards. 2t-37.

HAY, HAY, HAY. Come with money and get it. $1.00 a hundred, timothy or clover baled.

MOUNTAIN AGRICULTURE

Conducted by Mr. Robert F. Spence, Farm Demonstrator and Special Investigator

THE VALUE OF THE JUNIOR AGRICULTURAL CLUB WORK IN ROCKCASTLE COUNTY IN ROCKCASTLE COUNTY
Read at the Thrift Week Community Meeting at the Mt. Vernon Graded School Building, Tuesday evening, January 18, 1921.

By Everett Reynolds, Kentucky's Champion Corn Grower.

Little has been thought of the real value of our county boys and girls by the scores of working forces in our big county. Around and within the populated centers there has been people working with schools, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Christian Endeavor, Red Cross, Women's Club, and many other concerns, but somehow this work doesn't reach out very far into our poor rural section and give us boys and girls a chance. It sometimes occurs to me that few people are interested in finding some real helpful work to do. There are people who say they are inspired to do God's calling and are ready to do what He says do, but if you will notice nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand such people find such work in towns and cities. Is it because the country communities don't need help? Is it because God only calls to towns and cities? Is it because these workers are despised and not wanted in the rural sections? Is it because they can't make money and God only calls to money positions? These and other questions come to me as I sit around the fireside in my home near Mt. Vernon on Renfro's creek. I wish I could make it plain to you just how I feel, but being one of these country boys living on a farm working for my living raising corn, pigs, feeding calves and cleaning out the barn, I am afraid I can't make you see just what I want you to see.

Everett Reynolds and his County Agent

I will state it this way, why can't our country schools be made better for our boys and girls? Why can't our country churches be made better for our country boys and girls? Why can't we as country boys and girls have the chance in these many ways being suggested by our visiting friends and towns and city workers? Why don't some of our active Christian, moral workers work in the country, over the hill and through the mud, building up a sentiment, moulding character and bringing about a better community spirit?

Last summer at a junior agricultural club meeting our County Agent, Mr. Spence, made this statement—“Brighten the corner where you are.” At this time I didn't think much about it, but while I was working my corn (for I am a club boy) I often wondered if any good could come from me working my corn and being a club boy. This caused me to think more about the club work, and the value of it to our county and to the young people.

I believe Mr. Spence, our County Agent, is bringing about better conditions along the line which I spoke of a while ago. I was convinced of this fact when I heard Mr. Davis, your druggist, and Mr. Spence speak of our farms, homes, schools, churches and roads during our community development campaign this fall.

I want to call your attention to just one part of the County Agent's work, and that is our junior agricultural club. We had last year 112 members; they grew corn, pigs, poultry, sheep, calves, tomatoes, potatoes and beans. At the close of the year our club members alone had made a clear profit of $2,014.67. In making this money we did not lose any time from our other work which was to be done; we worked at home just as we had before.

Our club members have forty-one pure-bred pigs, two pure-bred bulls, twelve pure-bred sheep and more than five hundred pure-bred R. I. red birds. Nine club members hold Liberty Bonds, twenty-one hold War Savings Stamps and thirty-six have a BANK account of more than $700, which does not include our net profits made in 1920, most of which is still invested in livestock and crops held in our possession.

The Brodhead Bank, Livingston Bank, and the Bank of Mt. Vernon are giving $5 to each champion, which will remain on deposit for a term of five years with 3 percent interest. This of course gives us a bank account to start with. We mean to add dollars to this account this year.

I have been telling you the value of club work in Rockcastle, in dollars and cents. I cannot state the value in developing community spirit, moral character, citizenship, Christian-that "There's more in the man than in the land."

This is Everett's first year as club member. He took advantage of the junior club camp at London and attended every day. During this time he won for himself a name as one of the best boys in camp. He never refused to carry out orders given by his camp officers.

Everett won the trip to the State Fair because of his alertness, faithfulness and all around preparedness as club boy at the time the boys were selected. At the State Fair he attended a junior grading contest with scores of other young men, and came out with second honors, judging corn and hogs. He brought back to Rockcastle county a silver trophy cup, which places the county in second place in the junior judging ring.

Rockcastle county is proud to be the home of such a boy who has raised his name in the state to second place in judging. She is still prouder of being the home of the State Champion corn grower, also the home of the state champion of production.

Everett holds county championship as corn grower both of juniors and seniors of Rockcastle.

For this our bank of Mt. Vernon puts up a deposit of $5 to Everett's credit. This is to remain on deposit for five years with three percent interest. This is not a big sum, but it's all the county agent asked for. It is intended for a nest egg. Everett is determined to add to this each year for five years so as to have a handsome account at the end of five years.

STOCK

SUN REDUCES CHOLERA BILL

Unwise and Uneconomical to Depend Entirely on Serum to Protect Swine From Disease.

A few days' work in the pig pens and yards scraping, disinfecting and cleaning is pretty good hog-cholera insurance, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Strict sanitation is the best aid the farmer can give to the work of the hog-cholera serum. It is unwise and uneconomical to depend entirely upon the serum to protect the swine from this costly disease. In 1918 the farmers paid a serum bill of over $5,000,000 and they still lost $10,000,000 worth of pigs. There can be no doubt as to the effectiveness of the serum treatment, but the sensible farmer will do what he can with shovel, hoe and disinfectant to remove the cause of the trouble. The threat of cholera is always present so long as there are undrained cesspools and wallows. Straw stacks should never be left from one year to the next if they are where the hogs can reach them. Shelters and pens should be so constructed that they may be easily cleaned and exposed to the sunlight.

Hog Cholera Thrives in Such Surroundings as These.

A few days devoted to work of this sort in the fall when the hogs have been taken from the pens will do much to protect the herds of another year.

PROSPECTS FOR CATTLE MEN

Nebraska College of Agriculture Encouraging Farmers to Increase Their Operations.

The Nebraska College of Agriculture is encouraging farmers to expand their live stock operations. The scarcity of all kinds of stock, especially cattle, points to continued good prices. With feed prices going lower, better days seem to be near for both the live stock raiser and the live stock feeder. While it is true that many feeders lost money in the last two years, feed prices may be 30 per cent lower than that year. Likewise cheaper feed and labor should stimulate live stock raising. The number of cattle in the United States has been decreasing at an alarming rate. The number in the United States has decreased from 80 head for every 100 persons in 1900 to 42 head in 1919. During the same period the rate of slaughter increased 3,000,000 head annually. Some people go so far as to predict that in a few years only millionaires can have beefsteak on their tables, unless live stock production is stimulated.

State Honors

Everett Reynolds is to be honored throughout the State of Kentucky as being the State Champion Corn Club boy, also the State Champion on producing the biggest yield per acre (106.5 bushels).

Everett is A. E. Reynolds' son, who lives on Renfro's Creek, four miles from Mt. Vernon. He has lifted Rockcastle county's name to the top of the ladder in the Junior Agriculture Club work. He has shown

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. F. H. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, 1921 Western Newspaper Union.

LESSON FOR MARCH 13

THE LAST PASSOVER.

LESSON TEXT Matt. 24:30.

OLD TESTAMENT—As often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come—1 Cor. 11:26.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Mark 14:12-26; Luke 22:7-23; John 13:1-30; 1 Cor. 11:17-34.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus at Supper With His Friends.

SECOND TOPIC—Remembering Our Lord Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord's Supper and Its Meaning.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Communication With Christ.

1. The Bargain of Betrayal (vv. 14-16).

This is a dark picture. Satan had completely gained the mastery over Judas that he sold his Lord for the price of a slave (Ex. 21:32). Judas' son was not of a sort that one would suddenly be overtaken with, but one of deliberate purpose.

2. The Passover Prepared (vv. 17-19).

The disciples' inquiry (v. 17). They inquired of Jesus as to where they should prepare for the Passover. They were no doubt anxious to be of service to Him. We should be not only ready to do our Lord's bidding, but should inspire of Him as to what He would have us do.

3. The Master's strange directions (v. 18). They were to go into the city where they would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water. It was usual for the women to carry the water. This unusual occurrence would make it easier for them to find the man. To him they were to say, "Where is the guest-chamber where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples?" And he will show you a large upper room furnished and prepared there make ready for us" (Mark 14:14, 15).

4. The obedience of the disciples.

They did as Jesus had appointed them. They did not stop to question the sanctity of the command, but like true disciples obeyed. Christ is omniscient. He knew just how the master would turn out.

III. The Betrayal Announced (vv. 20-23).

1. The time of (vv. 20, 21). It was while they were eating the last passover that Jesus made this announcement. Perhaps the reason why this feast should be disturbed by such a sad announcement was that Judas might be given an opportunity at this last moment to repent. God does not will that any should perish, but holds will to the most wicked man to the last moment an opportunity to repent.

2. The sorrowful question (v. 22). They did not seem to suspect one another, but directed personal attention to themselves. We should always examine ourselves rather than others.

3. The darkness of the crime (v. 23). "He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me," does not point out the traitor, but indicates the greatness of the crime.

4. The betrayal of Jesus was by the determined counsel and foreknowledge of God (v. 24; Acts 2:23). Nothing takes place by chance. "Woe unto the man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed; it had been good for that man if he had not been born." To have been born in the world and lived for a while leaving an impression upon it for good is a great privilege. He that is to be faced with such a great privilege as Jesus' sacrifice and to make such a miserable fall, and to make it worse than nonexistence.

5. Judas' evil determination unshaken (v. 25). In the face of all that Christ had said, he went forward and tried to cover up his purpose by saying, "Master, is it I?"

IV. The Feast of the New Covenant Instituted (vv. 25-30).

This took place at the close of the passover supper.

1. The bread a symbol of Christ's body (v. 20). This is a fitting emblem of Christ's body. An bread nourishes and strengthens our bodies, so Christ is food to our spiritual lives. Unless we feed upon Him, we shall perish.

2. The cup a symbol of Christ's blood (vv. 27, 28). This was symbolic of the atonement which was made by the shedding of His blood on the cross.

3. Drinking anew in the kingdom (v. 29). This does not mean that in heaven this service will be renewed, but that this was symbolic of the heavenly reality.

4. Going to the cross with a song (v. 30). With all the sorrows and the burdens of the world upon Him, He pressed forward with cheerfulness. Those who have come under the shadow of His blood can go forward bearing their cross with a song of joy.

Religion.

Religion is not a lot of things that a man does, but a new life that he lives; not a thing for weak souls, but a thing for the manly soul.—Phillips Brooks.

Watch Our Beginnings.

Let us watch well our beginnings and results will manage themselves.—Alix Clark.

The Life Preserver.

Every man's task is his life preserver.—Emerson.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Conducted by the Home Economics Department of Berea College.

DISEASE

Report of Lecture Given by Dr. Holmes at the Conference #1 Lexington, Ky., Feb. 1920.

The first idea of disease was gotten by the savage man. He thought disease came through evil spirits, through voices in the air, and other things of like sort about him.

Later men thought disease was a punishment from God, and still later spontaneous combustion was thought to be the cause of disease. The idea that the garbage can, the manure pile, dirty streets, the ash can, etc., was the breeding place of disease germs, prevailed.

Science has now come to believe that it is not possible for disease to be carried or spread through these agents, (although these things may have some bearing on disease) but it is only from man to man, or through man that disease germs may be carried.

Pasteur, the great French scientist, in 1862 showed that disease could be killed, and thus began the real study of bacteria, which had begun as far back as Jenner.

We inherit a certain amount of contempt for our bodies, which came down to us from the early Christian period. Now we are coming to have a new conception of the value of the body. This conception has been brought to us through the progress of the world. Such organizations as the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. have done much to bring up the standard of health. Also our new attitude toward women. In the olden days woman did not have the chance to develop as she is developing today.

It was not proper for her to enter into athletics. Her realm was in the home only. It is no longer a new thing to see women active in athletics, in business, and, as a result, she is becoming straight and strong.

Nature plays a great part in the curbing of diseases. Many times we attempt to cure a headache, a cough or a pain by taking patent medicines. We think no farther than to immediately stop the pain; when the proper thing for us to do is to find the cause of the ailment. We sometimes sneeze, and think we are taking cold, but the sneeze is merely nature's way of getting rid of bacteria.

Nature has provided us with safeguards. We cut a finger and the blood clots, in this way safe-guarding against disease germs which might otherwise enter and cause trouble. Nature has also provided us with paired organs, two lungs, two kidneys, two brains, etc. Should one of these paired organs fail to function, one would still go on living because of the functioning of its mate. One can even get along without the stomach, by letting the small intestines do its own work, as well as that of the stomach.

We have made marvellous progress since the early struggle for existence, some diseases having been nearly wiped out. Smallpox is almost a disease of the past, breaking out only in spots and where people have not been vaccinated against it. Typhoid is not so common as it was some years ago.

It has been found out that the mosquito has been the cause of yellow fever, and everything is being done to exterminate this insect. All holes and wet places are being filled up, as it is in such places where the mosquito breeds.

A few years ago one out of every four died of tuberculosis. Today one out of every ten dies. Looking at these figures, we may dare to hope that tuberculosis will in a few years hence be entirely wiped out.

As yet the cause of cancer has not been determined, nor what can stop it. This disease is more prevalent among women than men. Only a simple operation may be necessary, if it is taken in time; but if not taken care of at once, it may mean a severe operation and often death.

One may be a carrier of disease germs, as in the case of "Typhoid Mary" who, although not having had typhoid, gave it to many. Her large intestine was found to be full of typhoid germs.

Science now says disease germs can not live in books, dishes and the sick room for any length of time. There is no evidence that these things carry germs. They cannot live out of their environment—the living body—with out very soon dying. (In this connection Dr. Holmes thinks fumigation is not necessary.)

Some of the causes of disease may be diseased tonsils, bad teeth and feet. There is no need of one going through life with any of these defects, as they can be remedied and the cause of disease stopped.

To prevent disease we must get our bodies into a healthy condition. This does not always keep one from catching a disease, but if the laws of health are obeyed, and we KEEP AWAY from the sick, or observe the laws of care, there is not much danger of contracting disease.

Among certain classes of people such diseases as trachoma, hook worm, etc., are common. They do not realize that health is a right, and can be obtained.

Statistics show that 85 percent of population has infection from gonorrhoea. A large percent of boys have venereal diseases, yet we are not much concerned. In order to wipe out these diseases, we must have vigor, and living must become a joy. We have a task before us of finding out the simple rules of health, then carrying out the simple rules. A healthy body demands contentment and happiness, and to be contented and happy, one must be healthy.

Minnie Klar,

Senior Vocational Home Science

WAYS FOR UTILIZING LEFT-OVER CEREALS

Housekeeper Can Make Good Use of All Remnants.

HARDING WOULD PROMOTE PEACE

(Continued from Page 1)

reflect the glory of new world democracy, but in the new order of finance and trade we mean to promote enlarged activities and seek expanded confidence.

Perhaps we can make no more helpful contribution by example than prove a republic's capacity to emerge from the wreckage of war. While the world's embittered travail did not leave us devastated lands nor desolate cities, left no gaping wounds, no fire with hate, it did involve us in the delirium of expenditure, in expanded currency and credits, in unbalanced industry, in unspeakable waste and disturbed relationships. While it uncovered our portion of human selfishness at home, it also revealed the heart of America as sound and fearless and bearing in confidence unfading.

And if all we have visited the gaze of all civilized on to the need of balance and the right cause of representative democracy where freedom never has made offensive warfare, never has sought territorial aggrandizement through force, nor has turned to the subversion of law until reason has been exhausted. When the governments of the earth shall have established a freedom for our own and shall have sanctioned the pursuit of peace as we have practiced it, I believe the last sorrow and the final sacrifice of interpartisan warfare will have been written.

Our Supreme Task.

Our supreme task is the resumption of our onward normal way. Reconstruction, readjustment, restoration—all these must follow. I would like to hasten them. If it will lighten the spirit and add to the resolution with which we take up the task, let me repeat for our nation, we shall give no people just cause to make war upon us, we hold no national prejudices, we entertain no spirit of revenge, we do not hate, we do not covet, we dream of no conquest, nor boast of armed prowess.

I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate credit facilities, for sympathetic concern for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to government's experiment in business, and for more efficient business in government administration. With all of this must attend a mindfulness of the human side of all activities, so that social, industrial and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people.

With the nation-wide induction of womanhood into our political life, we may count upon her intuitions, her refinements, her intelligence and her influence to exalt the social order. We count upon her exercise of the full privileges and the performance of the duties of citizenship to speed the attainment of the highest state.

Prayer For Industrial Peace.

I wish for an America no less alert in guarding against dangers from within than it is watchful against enemies from without. Our fundamental law recognizes no class, no group, no section, there must be none in legislation or administration. The supreme inspiration is the common well-being, the numbers for international peace, and we crave it with all mankind. My most reverent prayer for America is for industrial peace, with its rewards, widely and generally distributed, amid the inspirations of equal opportunity. No one justly may deny the equality of opportunity which made us what we are. We have mistaken unpreparedness to embrace it to be a challenge of the reality, and due concern for making all citizens fit for participation will give added strength of citizenship and magnify our achievement.

If revolution insists upon overturning established order, let other peoples make the tragic experiment. Sandalwood Long Prized.

Sandalwood is the product principally of the native state of Mysore, India, and the district of Coorg. Due to the development of the sandalwood oil extracting industry, the exportation of the wood from Mysore has steadily declined, while that of the oil has increased. Sandalwood is the most famous of all scented woods. Its use for perfumery and incense dates back thousands of years. The Inter-Greeks regarded it as one of their greatest luxuries, and no festivities were complete without it. Sandalwood figures prominently in religious ceremonies and burial rites in China and other oriental countries.

to reach stability. All the penalties will not be light, nor evenly distributed. There is no way of making them so. There is no instant step from disorder to order. We must face a condition of grim reality, charge off our losses and start afresh. It is the oldest lesson of civilization. I would like government to do all it can to mitigate; then, in understanding, in mutuality of interest, in concern for the common good, our tasks will be solved. No altered system will work a miracle. Any wild experiment will only add to the confusion. Our best assurance lies in efficient administration of our proven system.

From Destruction to Production.

The forward course of the business cycle is unmistakable. Peoples are turning from destruction to production. Industry has sensed the changed order and our own people are turning to resume their normal, onward way. The call is for productive America to go on. I know that congress and the administration will favor every wise government policy to aid the resumption and encourage continued progress.

I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate credit facilities, for sympathetic concern for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to government's experiment in business, and for more efficient business in government administration. With all of this must attend a mindfulness of the human side of all activities, so that social, industrial and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people.

With the nation-wide induction of womanhood into our political life, we may count upon her intuitions, her refinements, her intelligence and her influence to exalt the social order. We count upon her exercise of the full privileges and the performance of the duties of citizenship to speed the attainment of the highest state.

I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate credit facilities, for sympathetic concern for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to government's experiment in business, and for more efficient business in government administration. With all of this must attend a mindfulness of the human side of all activities, so that social, industrial and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people.

Prayer For Industrial Peace.

I wish for an America no less alert in guarding against dangers from within than it is watchful against enemies from without. Our fundamental law recognizes no class, no group, no section, there must be none in legislation or administration. The supreme inspiration is the common well-being, the numbers for international peace, and we crave it with all mankind. My most reverent prayer for America is for industrial peace, with its rewards, widely and generally distributed, amid the inspirations of equal opportunity. No one justly may deny the equality of opportunity which made us what we are. We have mistaken unpreparedness to embrace it to be a challenge of the reality, and due concern for making all citizens fit for participation will give added strength of citizenship and magnify our achievement.

If revolution insists upon overturning established order, let other peoples make the tragic experiment. Sandalwood Long Prized.

Sandalwood is the product principally of the native state of Mysore, India, and the district of Coorg. Due to the development of the sandalwood oil extracting industry, the exportation of the wood from Mysore has steadily declined, while that of the oil has increased. Sandalwood is the most famous of all scented woods. Its use for perfumery and incense dates back thousands of years. The Inter-Greeks regarded it as one of their greatest luxuries, and no festivities were complete without it. Sandalwood figures prominently in religious ceremonies and burial rites in China and other oriental countries.

be equality of rewards or possessions so long as the human plan contains varied talents and differing degrees of industry and thrift, and ours ought to be a country free from great blots of distressed poverty. We ought to find a way to guard against the perils and penitences of unemployment. We want an America of homes, illuminated with hope and happiness, where mothers, freed from the necessity for long hours of toil beyond their own doors, may preside as befits the hearthstone of American citizenship. We want the cradle of American childhood rocked under conditions so wholesome and so hopeful that no blight may touch it in its development, and we want to provide that no selfish interest, no material necessity, no lack of opportunity shall prevent the gaining of that education so essential to best citizenship.

There is no shortcut to the making of these ideals into glad realities. The world has witnessed, again and again, the folly and the mischief of ill-considered remedies for social and economic disorders. But we are mindful today as never before of the friction of modern industrialism, and we must learn its causes and reduce its evil consequences by sober and tested methods. Where genius has made for great possibilities, justice and happiness must be reflected in a greater common welfare.

Service, the Supreme Commitment.

Service is the supreme commitment of life. I would rejoice to acclaim the era of the Golden Rule and crown it with the autocracy of service. I pledge an administration wherein all the agencies of government are called to serve, and ever promote an understanding of government purely as an expression of the popular will.

One can not stand in this presence and be unmindful of the tremendous responsibility. The world upheaval has added heavily to our tasks. But with the realization comes the surge of high resolve, and there is reassurance in belief in the God-given destiny of our republic. If I felt that there is to be sole responsibility in the executive for the America of tomorrow I should shrink from the burden. But here are a hundred millions, with common concern and shared responsibility, answerable to God and country. The republic summons them to their duty, and I invite co-operation.

I accept my part with single-mindedness of purpose and humility of spirit, and implore the favor and guidance of God in his heaven. With these I am unafraid, and confidently face the future.

I have taken the solemn oath of office on that passage of Holy Writ wherein it is asked: 'What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?' This I plighted to God and country.

Sandalwood Long Prized.

Sandalwood is the product principally of the native state of Mysore, India, and the district of Coorg. Due to the development of the sandalwood oil extracting industry, the exportation of the wood from Mysore has steadily declined, while that of the oil has increased. Sandalwood is the most famous of all scented woods. Its use for perfumery and incense dates back thousands of years. The Inter-Greeks regarded it as one of their greatest luxuries, and no festivities were complete without it. Sandalwood figures prominently in religious ceremonies and burial rites in China and other oriental countries.

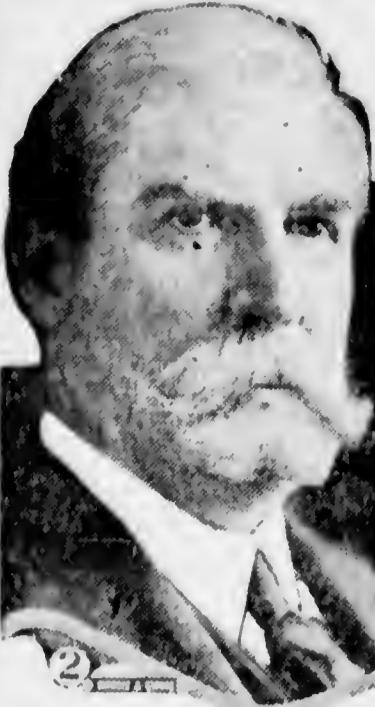

A record of changing conditions and the new leaven that is working at the soul of humanity.

The Prodigal Village

By Irving Bacheller

In all gentleness and kindness, in all beauty and sincerity, in the real spirit of the true America, "The Prodigal Village" shows us the happy pathway to the delectable mountains and makes us long for the old days, the brave days, the days that are no more but can come again—if we but will it. The man who successfully told the story of Lincoln's life and career in the form of a novel, gives us a new and inspiring tale of American life. Soon to start serially in this publication.

Watch for It!

2—Residence on 8th street, Washington, which has been purchased by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce. 3—President Millerand of France (center) and Pilsudski of Poland (left) at a military review near Paris.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Allies, Rejecting the Counter-Proposal of the Germans, Issue an Ultimatum

WILL OCCUPY RHINE CITIES

Armed Force Will Be Applied Immediately—French Troops Ready to Move—President Harding's Inaugural Address Indicates His Attitude Toward League of Nations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

"Kolossal," which used to be the favorite adjective of the Germans, may well be applied to their nerve as displayed in the counter proposals on reparations, submitted to the supreme council in London by Foreign Minister Simon and his colleagues. The world had expected from them something inadequate in the way of an offer, but the insolence of the proposal was amazing, even to unoffended Germany. Lloyd George and Briand heard it with ill-concealed derision, and the formal statement of the allies was that "it does not merit either examination or discussion."

This was followed by an ultimatum in which the German delegates were informed that if Germany did not accept the fundamental conditions laid down by the supreme council in Paris the allies would take immediate steps. First of these steps will be the occupation by allied troops of the cities of Duisburg, Dusseldorf and Ruhrort; second, each allied country will place on German territory such a tax as it may deem proper; third, a customs boundary will be established along the Rhine under allied control. Germany, said Premier Lloyd George in his reply to the German proposal, would be permitted to suggest no modifications of the Paris decisions except as to conditions of payment.

Doctor Simon answered that the German position had been misunderstood, and that he would reply on Monday to the ultimatum.

Gently stated, Simon proposed that Germany pay the allies war reparations about $40,000,000,000 gold marks—approximately $7,500,000,000—which is about one-seventh of the sum demanded by the allies. Also, the offer was conditioned on two provisions, that Germany be accorded free commercial privileges throughout the world, and that Upper Silesia, where a plebiscite soon is to be held, shall remain German.

Especially impudent was the suggestion to capitalize Germany's reparation payments through an international loan to be divided among allied countries and held free from taxation in all countries. This meant that the Germans want the allies to furnish them the money to pay their debts by allowing the Germans to offer so attractive an investment that it would outshine other securities and be made still more attractive through the surrender of tax revenues by the allied governments.

Meanwhile the French, anticipating the outcome of the conference, were getting ready to enforce payment by Germany. Their plans for military action were prepared and submitted by Marshal Foch, and after prolonged discussion, Lloyd George was persuaded to agree to Great Britain's participation in the use of armed force. A French officer in London said French long-range guns had already been moved forward to a position from which they commanded Essen where the Krupp works are located. Field artillery, cavalry and tank and armored car formations were held in readiness for the advance, and the air squadrons were awaiting the word to "take off." At Coblenz it was stated that the American troops, in the event of an allied advance, would merely continue to occupy the actual lines now held by them.

Belgium is ready to act with France and Britain in the Essen-Dusseldorf district. She had 13,000 troops on the Rhine and has sent two more divisions there. The French have 150,000 men in the occupation zone and 200,000 in reserve close by.

Among the interesting side-lights on the "poor month" presented by the Germans is the information afforded by a reliable American officer who has recently made a thousand-mile motor car trip through the chief agricultural and industrial districts of Germany. He says that Germany can pay the sum demanded; that he saw everywhere amazing evidence of productive labor and growing wealth.

All American eyes were turned toward Washington on Friday when Warren G. Harding was inaugurated President, and all American ears were open to hear what he had to say of the policies that shall control his administration. The ceremonies were simple and dignified, in conformity with the wishes of Mr. Harding. The new President, in his address, left no one in doubt as to his attitude toward the League of Nations as now constituted. Much of what he said is devoted to the general subject of international relations. He asserted that America had proved the wisdom of its inherited policy of non-involvement in old world affairs; that it can be a party to no permanent military alliance; that it can enter into no political commitments nor assume any economic obligations "which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority." At the same time, he said, America is ready to associate itself with all other nations for conference and counsel; to seek ways to bring about approximate disarmament; to promote mediation, conciliation and arbitration and to establish a world court for the disposition of justiciable questions submitted by agreement.

To his fellow citizens President Harding made an eloquent plea for "the resumption of our onward, normal way," for sane reconstruction after the devastation of war, for readjustment with care and courage without any wild experiments. Said he: "We must face a condition of grim reality, charge off our losses and start afresh."

For his part, he promised administrative efficiency and lightened tax burdens, adequate credit facilities, sympathetic concern for all agricultural problems, omission of unnecessary interference of government in business, and an end to government's experiment in business.

Among the interesting things which Mr. Harding hopes to bring about, according to confidential announcement, is the creation of a "ministry of defense" under a cabinet officer, to control the national defenses on land, on sea and in the air. This, of course, would mean the consolidation of the War and Navy departments. It is said the plan meets the approval of both Secretary of War Weeks and Secretary of the Navy Denby, and that both of them have agreed to give way if the plan is adopted.

In the last hours of its life the congress reached agreement on the army appropriation bill and it went through with provisions fixing the strength of the army for the next year at 150,000. The house had put the figure at 150,000 and the senate wanted 175,000, so the result is a compromise in which the upper house yielded most.

The harshest struggle was over the naval appropriation bill. In the senate, the controversy being over the $100,000,000 added to it by the naval committee. This fight prevented the passage of a number of measures, among them the soldiers' bonus bill, against which Senator Thomas of Colorado threatened to filibuster.

Contrary to predictions, the house judiciary committee took the charges against Judge Landis in all seriousness, and presented a report recommending that they be fully investigated by the next congress. The report said that if it were true that Judge Landis had accepted the position of baseball arbiter while holding his judicial position—and of course that is true—his action was "at least inconsistent with the full and adequate performance of the duty of United States District Judge, and that said act would constitute a serious impropriety on the part of the judge."

Judge Landis' reply to this was to refer to his statement of last December, when he said: "They will never impeach me. If both houses of congress by a majority vote pass a resolution expressing disappointment at my attempt to benefit 10,000,000 persons who have a whole-hearted interest in baseball, I will send my resignation as a federal judge to Washington by telegram."

John Skelton Williams retired Wednesday as comptroller of the currency, and in accepting his resignation President Wilson took occasion to comment on the "gross injustice" done Mr. Williams by the Senate banking committee, which had prevented his confirmation. One of Mr. Williams' last official acts was to charge the United States Steel corporation with exacting excessive and unjustified prices for its iron and steel products. The accusation was vigorously denied by E. H. Gary, chairman of the corporation.

The house committee which investigated the doings of the shipping board made a report recommending the transfer of the functions of the board to an executive department because what is needed is more centralization of administrative authority than can be had with a large board. The committee found there had been waste, inefficiency and lack of coordination in the work of the board, but found no evidence "to prove that dishonest or fraudulent motives actuated any member of the shipping board or of the trustees of the Emergency Fleet corporation." Specifically, Charles M. Schwab and R. W. Bell, brother-in-law of Mr. Wilson, were exonerated from charges of interested action. In general, the board was praised for "the most remarkable achievement in shipbuilding the world has ever seen."

A small side door in the temple of Janus has been thrown open in honor of Panama and Costa Rica, which small republics seem determined to go to war over Coto, a piece of territory which contains valuable oil deposits and which is claimed by both. Indeed, hostilities already have broken out, and several soldiers have been killed. A small detachment of Costa Ricans that had occupied the disputed territory was attacked by a Panamanian force and defeated. The excitement in both countries is intense, and in the city of Panama a war-mad mob even attacked the presidential mansion because President Porras had declared himself in favor of a diplomatic settlement of the quarrel. At latest reports Costa Rican forces were being rushed to the Coto district. It was believed some of them would be landed on the eastern shore of Barrios to cut off the Panamanians from their supplies. As this shore was given to Panama under the arbitration ruling of Chief Justice White in 1914, it was feared the United States might be involved, under the assumption that it is obligated to protect the territorial integrity of Panama.

Many stories, more or less detailed, of widespread revolt in Russia against the soviet rule have been coming to the outer world, usually by way of Finland. Hundreds of thousands of workmen, hungry, cold and without employment, were said to have opened war on the Bolshevik armies and others, and especially in Petrograd, there were heavy casualties. These reports lacked confirmation, and were declared false by the soviet authorities. Recent dispatches from Helsinki said the soviet government had not lost control and that Lenin was promising the workmen all the relief in his power.

In the death of Champ Clark of Missouri, former speaker, the country lost a distinguished citizen and the Democratic party one of its strongest members. He never entirely recovered from his defeat for the presidential nomination in the Baltimore convention and of late years had been comparatively inactive, but his life record is one of earnest and at times eminent labor for his country.

General College News

ORATORICAL CONTEST

The thirty-fourth annual contest of the Kentucky Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Association was held in the Berea College Chapel, Saturday night, March 5. Five colleges were represented, and a high mark was reached in the oratory and argument of every speaker. Each man exhibited a familiarity with and an interest in his subject seldom seen even in the defenders of national issues on the floor of Congress.

The first oration, "Visions and dreams," was delivered by Nolan Carter of Georgetown College. His production is what might be called beautiful, but it lacked persuasive qualities. It was an exalted and glorified essay, arousing the emotions and enlisting interest, but with no argumentative appeal. He recalled the leading dreams and visions that have moved the universe from the early ages to the present time. The beauty of Mr. Carter's rhetoric and his oratorical voice won for him second place.

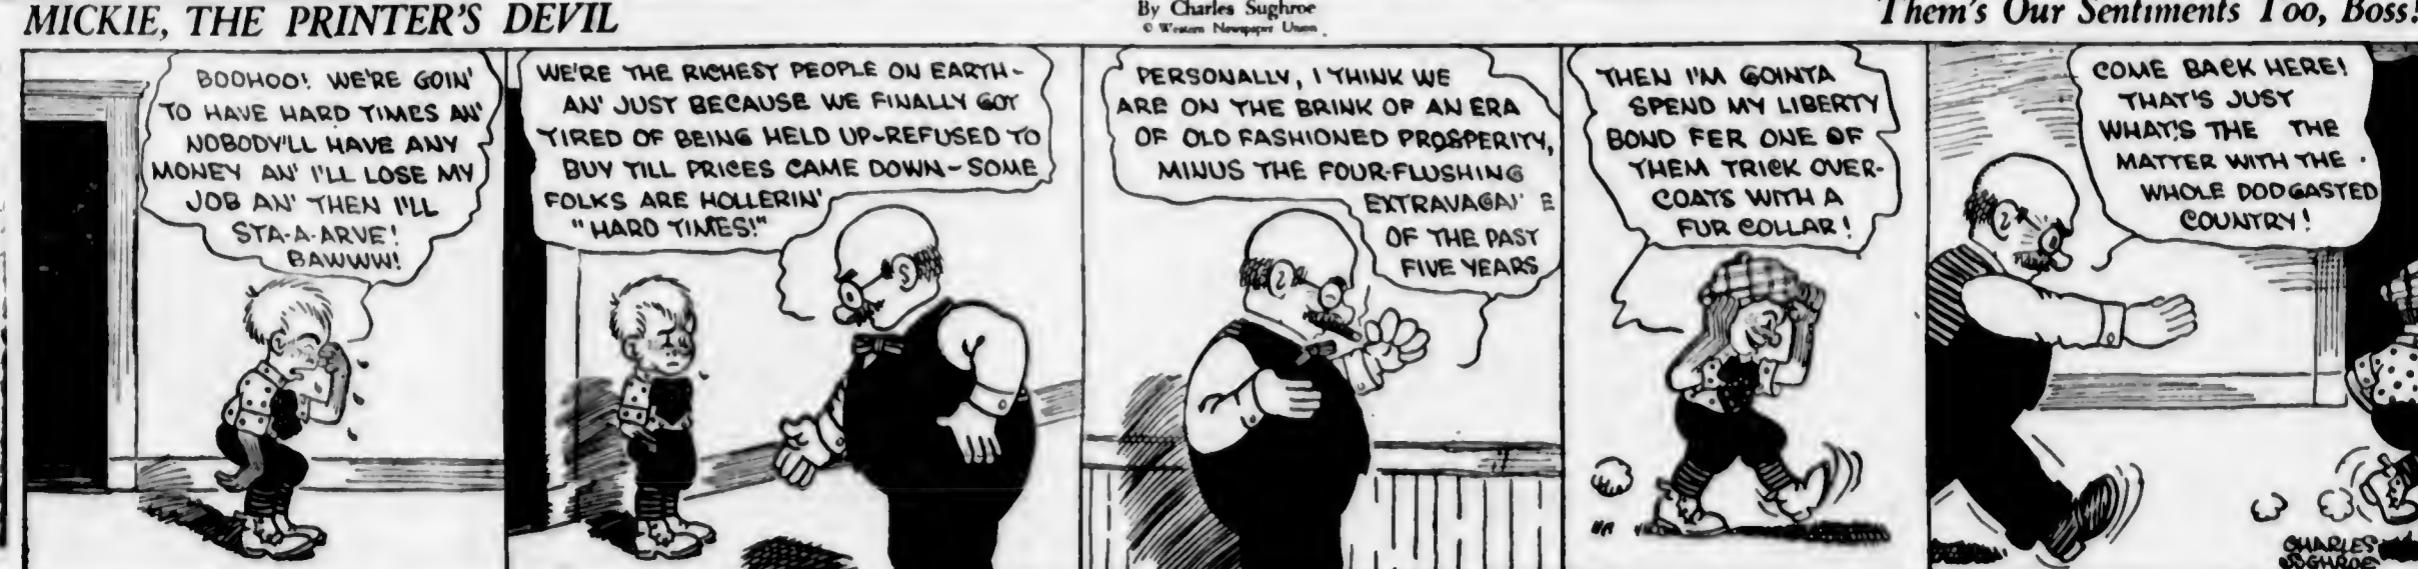

The second oration, "From Washington to Reno," by John Y. Brown of Center College, was a very clever production. Reno with its lax laws, easy divorce, prize fights, bears the same relation to Washington that Nero bore to Romulus, the founder of Rome. From Romulus to Nero the dissolution of home life was wrought and the fall of the Roman Empire was the natural consequence. If we continue to travel from the strength of Washington, which is the American home, toward the modern spirit of Reno, America will fall just as truly as Rome fell.

The third oration, "Shall We Fail," by Richard C. Cummings of Wesleyan College, dealt with the after-war crisis that we are facing. The world is looking to us for lessons in democracy and brotherhood and national ethics. Shall we fall from the high pinnacle of unselfishness which we climbed during the war, or shall we lead mankind to unachieved heights?

The fourth oration, "The Anglo-Irish Controversy," by Patrick Vincent, of the University of Kentucky, came from a thoroughly Irish soul. Mr. Vincent went into the history of Ireland's struggle for liberty and ended with an appeal that moved his audience. He declared the Irish to be a subject race within their own country, that the majority of the Irish citizens were holding the majority in bondage through the military power of England. Mr. Vincent was awarded third place.

The last oration, "The Japanese Problem," by William O. Keller, of Berea College, was the crown of the contest. Mr. Keller entered the contest with the least popular subject of the lot, because the Japanese question is not a live one in Kentucky, but before he had gone far it was evident to everyone that a real race war was in progress on the Pacific coast. The seriousness of the problem became more apparent as he proceeded, and by the time he reached his remedy for this situation, the audience was really face to face with the gravest menace that today threatens our nation. Mr. Keller did not leave the audience in despair, but offered a simple remedy that will give a permanent check to the increasing immigration of Japanese. National legislation should be enacted to limit the number of immigrants, and Americanization laws must be enforced among all foreigners. Mr. Keller's appearance on the platform, gestures, and voice were graded high including the statement, argument, application, and climax, met the requirements of good oratory. And the written manuscript that was submitted to the judges before the contest received high marks because of composition and construction. Judging by all the rules of oratory, Mr. Keller was an easy winner and will be the man to represent Kentucky in the Interstate Contest which will occur early in April.

MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL

Normal Department

PROFESSOR SMITH MEMBER OF CODE COMMISSION

Professor John F. Smith has recently been appointed by Governor Morrow to a place on the Kentucky Children's Code Commission to succeed Attilia Cox of Louisville, who resigned.

The Commission was created by an act of the State Legislature in 1920 for the purpose of studying the conditions of child life and the child welfare agencies in the State and making recommendations to the relief agencies and the Legislature for the improvement of the work relating to the welfare of Kentucky's children.

It is the purpose of the Commission to have an immediate study made of all relief and corrective agencies with the view of formulating plans for improvement in both the laws and the agencies on the field. This study will be made by the National Child Labor Committee.

The other members of the Commission are Elwood Street, Director of Louisville Welfare League; Mrs. Charles B. Sample, President of the Louisville Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Frances Ingram, head of the Louisville Neighborhood House, and Mrs. Stanley Reed of Mayfield.

CHUNG CHO IN INDEPENDENCE CELEBRATION

On the evening of March 2 in Chicago, the Koreans of that city, many of them students, celebrated the second anniversary of Korean independence by entertaining their American friends at a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. restaurant.

On March 1, 1919, occurred the great change. In a night the attitude of Korea changed from a passive submission to their oppressor, Japan, to glowing and ever-burning passion for freedom from their bondage and the expectant hope of once more becoming one of the great nations of the Orient. Lack of these aspirations is 4,252 years of history and achievement.

Berea will be particularly interested in the fact that the great proclamation document of the Koreans was read by Chung W. Cho (Berea, Ph.B., 1920) impressively and with a depth of feeling not to be surpassed, as he remembers the wrongs suffered, the lives martyred and the afflictions still to be endured before the bright day of Korean independence shall dawn upon the earth.

Historic Weather Vane.

The Dutch burghers who followed Henry Hudson from Netherlands to New Amsterdam brought their weathercocks and set them up on the steeples and towers that are seen in the quaint old pictures of old New York. One of these old vane is probably the oldest thing in New York at the present time. It is the original gilded weathercock of the old Dutch Stadt Huys, or city hall, now in the possession of the St. Nicholas society. The hall, first used as a tavern, was erected in 1642 by Director Kleft. In 1690 it was sold by the city to a Mr. Rodman. The weather vane on the structure came into the possession of Mrs. Elizabeth Mackie. She gave it to Washington Irving, May 13, 1836, who kept it for some years on his house at Sleepy Hollow. He presented it to the St. Nicholas society December 3, 1848, and since that time it has graced the speakers' table at every banquet of the society.

Tantalus.
According to Greek mythology, Tantalus was a son of Zeus, or the Jupiter of the Romans. All traditions agree in stating that he was a wealthy king, but some call him king of Lydia, in Asia Minor, while others king of Corinth in Greece. He is celebrated in ancient traditions for the terrible punishment inflicted upon him after death. It was related that he divulged the secrets intrusted to him by Zeus, and was punished in the lower world by being inflicted with a raging thirst, and at the same time placed in the midst of a lake, the waters of which always receded from his as soon as he attempted to drink. From this tradition the English language has borrowed the verb to tantalize, that is, to hold out hopes or prospects that cannot be realized.

Plant Puzzles Scientists.
The investigating scientist in plant life is seeking to learn why the silver sword plant is found in only two places in the world, one on the high slopes of the Ilimbhuvo mountains, the other near the extinct volcano on the island of Maui, Hawaii. The plant is similar to the Spanish bayonet and gets its name from the bright color of its leaves.

The Inauguration

By Professor LeVant Dodge

The second term of Woodrow Wilson as President of the United States was supposed to end and the term of Warren G. Harding, as his successor, to begin, at high noon of Friday, March 4, 1921, Eastern time. As a matter of fact the oath of office was taken by the new President at just about 1:20.

As usual the presidential oath of office was administered by the Chief Justice, in the open air, just outside the central or main entrance to the Capitol. The inaugural address immediately followed. The interest of this formal induction of the new Chief Magistrate into office was due to the length of time required for the previous formalities in the Senate Chamber. It cannot be determined beforehand how much time those exercises will occupy. In order that the absolutely necessary business of the expiring Senate may be finished by twelve, the Vice President thrice had to give the Sergeant-at-Arms quiet directions to turn back the hands of the great clock. A great deal of time was necessarily required for the following series of formal and dignified functions: the ushering in of the members of the House of Representatives; the escorting of the Justices of the Supreme Court to a place of honor; the seating in a body of the forty or more ministers from foreign countries, clad in their various robes; the inauguration of the Vice President, with his brief address; the bringing in together of the President and the President-elect, seating them in a conspicuous place; the obliging, only four at a time, of thirty-two men who have been elected to serve as Senators for the next six years. This last is done by the new Vice President, who imposes the oath, then shakes hands with each; afterwards these Senators also affix their signatures to the oath, in a book. In the meantime several series of people were anxiously waiting outside the Capitol for the appearance of the Chief Actor in crowning ceremonies of the occasion.

I did not personally witness these scenes in the Senate Chamber, yesterday. But eight years ago I was in a position to watch this regular program in minutest detail. The only amendment needed to the statement in the previous paragraph is that President Wilson was so nearly exhausted, by his unusual efforts up to that time, that he did not undertake to go into the Senate Chamber, but was taken to his new home, two or three miles from the Capitol, without waiting to see his successor inaugurated. The sum total of his activities for the forenoon had been to be got in readiness for a ride to the Capitol with Senator Harding, about one and a quarter miles, to go to the second floor, sign a few last hour bills, and receive the greetings of a very few individuals. In going down the steps to the automobile some person had to place his foot for him, at each step. He was practically lifted from the automobile, at the end of the trip. Inside of the Capitol building he walked to the elevator, using a cane, but so laboriously as to occupy about ten minutes, when a well person would have done it in a minute. All this shows how near to being a complete invalid President Wilson is and has been for the past year and a half. He went through with this little physical exertion, only by the exercise of that iron will of his which can brook no opposition and which has seemed to strengthen with age. Even his enemies will naturally have pity for him, as he retires to his home, bitterly disappointed as to the realization of his cherished plans. Without doubt he wished for the highest good of the world, though a large majority of our people believe that he made many serious mistakes.

The omission of the world-famous inaugural parade in accordance with the desire of the President-elect for simplicity and economy, is viewed by different people in various ways. Probably a majority approve of it, though many of these have some

Mountain Men in History

By Elizabeth S. Peck, Professor of History, Berea Academy

on a bed of thorns upon the lonely hillside, inciting his flesh upon the cruel thorns. Then by frequent tortures, by self-denial, by absolute solitude, and by unceasing prayer, Benedict tried to make his life pure and holy.

Benedict's Popularity

After the death of his faithful monk-attendant, the people of the neighborhood learned of his presence in the cave, and brought him food out of respect for his holiness. At last a group of monks asked him to come and to be their chief. Benedict at first refused, fearing the comfort and the worldliness of their life, but finally he yielded to their persuasion. It was not long before he left them in disgust and returned to his lonely hermit life.

People would not leave him alone. They flocked about him that they might be in his holy presence, might hear his blessed words, and might learn the manner of his self-denying life. During the course of time a dozen monasteries grew up in the neighborhood and were directed by his counsel, although he steadfastly refused to leave his cave and become their head.

Benedict at Monte Cassino

Then jealous men came and tried to ruin his work. Once more he left his cave, this time forever. He took himself to a lonely hillside, Monte Cassino, and there he founded a monastery according to his own ideas. In time he wrote a book of rules to guide his monastery in the future. His system was so successful that it soon spread to other monasteries in that region. After his death his rules lived on and spread over all western Europe. So common had his rules become by the eighth century that Charlemagne asked if there were any monks who were not Benedictines. When monasticism was at its height, there were said to be 40,000 monasteries using the Benedictine rules.

(Continued Next Week)

measure of personal disappointment. Very many hotel keepers and others missed their opportunity for reasonable gains. No doubt there has been a net saving, on the whole, of many hundred thousands of dollars. A part of this has been the sparing, for other use, of the vast amount of lumber which would have been partly spoiled in the building of large reviewing stands, along the usual lines of parade. On the whole there seems to be good-natured acquiescence in what may prove to be the regular order hereafter. As it is, many people got what pleasure they could from seeing Wilson and Harding ride together along Pennsylvania Avenue, with Marshall and Coolidge in the next auto and with the lime light ladies following, the whole group attended by a modest-sized troop of cavalry from Fort Myer.

The absence of ostentation elsewhere gave the incoming President a special opportunity for a heart-to-heart talk to a large number of his fellow-citizens. Though there are less visitors from abroad than usual on these occasions, it was to be expected that more would gather on the open space, east of the Capitol, to hear the inaugural address.

The Bell Telephone Company has gotten up a very wonderful machine called a "sound amplifier." It is very complicated, with a combination of horns and so-called "cells" designed to render the ordinary voice audible at a great distance. It is said that only five of these machines have been made; and two of them were here for use on this occasion. The delicate parts were installed in the covers of the speaker's platform, in a way not visible, with some hidden connection with the electric power in the Capitol basement. Several experts were on duty here for days preceding the great event, making various tests with speaking and music.

They had telephonic connection with various points of the ample grounds, whence reports could be sent to the central head as to the working from time to time. The crowd occupied the acres of open land, extending into adjacent streets. People were perched on the roofs of the Capitol and adjacent buildings; and the large trees were loaded with human fruit. I am constitutionally opposed to exaggeration, but a computation made since leads me to accept the statement that there must have been a hundred thousand listeners. The amplified proved a wonderful success. Probably no other speech ever delivered was distinctly heard by so many persons. Providentially, through help received from Miss Evidene Paston, Secretary for Senator Capper of Kansas, and by being there nearly four hours before the inaugural, Mrs. Dodge and I had the best chance for both seeing and hearing. We shall be forever grateful.

President Harding's voice was superb and his delivery most impressive. I wished that a lot of persons who, through imperfect knowledge, allowed themselves to make belittling remarks concerning him during the campaign could have heard him. I am not aware of there being one discordant sound in that vast sea of humanity, during the thirty-four minutes of the address. Not every one would agree with all the views advanced, but none could dispute the high-toned patriotic consecration of the man. He is every inch a President, and bids fair to receive the generous cooperation of most persons who desired a different result of the election.

The whole occasion was mellowed and a tinge of sadness given by the fact that the inanimate remains of ex-speaker Champ Clark, once so near the Presidency, were lying, not two stone throws away, awaiting the funeral in the Capitol building. Because of the universal respect for him, flags were at half mast and two promised band concerts were omitted. Blessed are the amenities of politics, when both parties are Americans!

True Art.

Art should seek its inspiration in the world beyond our senses. It must glow in an atmosphere of aloofness and detachment. The near must come, and the far must recede into the mists of infinity.—Anne Stoen.

Them's Our Sentiments Too, Boss!